Genoa Raid Damage Equals October's

LONDON (CP)—The Air Ministry said tonight that photographic reconnaissance had shown great damage inflicted on Genoa air raids made late in October, and that reports on Friday night's assault by R.A.F. bombers indicated that at least as much was done again.

Returning fliers said the four-engined bombers set fires which could be seen 120 miles away.

Looked, Got Caught

CAIRO (AP)—Two senior Italian officers captured in the drive on the Egyptian desert are fuming and fretting because, they have explained to their British captors, they were sent to the front as observers of British methods and not as combatants.

"This is an outrage," one of them complained. "We were not fighting; we were just looking."

3 Soldiers Killed

ST. DAMASE, Que. (CP)—Three soldiers were killed and five others injured when a truck in which they were riding overturned on a curve 2½ miles from this village, 30 miles east of Montreal. The names of the dead were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

A. D. Swan Dies

MONTREAL (CP)—Andrew Don Swan, 69, well-known consulting engineer in Canada for decades, has died in Edinburgh, Scotland, it was learned here this afternoon.

Mr. Swan was assistant chief engineer to the Montreal Harbor Commission from 1909 to 1913. He went to the Pacific Coast, where the Dominion government sought his advice on the future development of the Port of Vancouver, and was engaged on construction of the Johnson St. bridge at Victoria.

Notice of Appeal Filed for Walsh

Notice has been filed in Vancouver on behalf of Joseph Arthur Walsh, Victoria shoe merchant, of an appeal from his conviction with Leonard J. Simmons on a charge of conspiring to defraud the provincial government.

Walsh was found guilty at the Victoria assizes last Tuesday and remanded by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith with Simmons for sentence at the close of the assizes.

Although his notice of appeal has been filed in Vancouver, it is not expected the case will be ready for hearing at the November session of the appellate court but will await the January sitting in Victoria.

Ponder Gas Ration

OTTAWA (CP)—Oil control officials are studying possible changes in the gasoline rationing plan when present ration licenses expire March 31, but no definite decisions are expected until near that date, munitions department spokesmen said today.

Unofficially it has been suggested any further reductions might be made on the basis of mileage traveled in the first year of rationing. The hardship which this would impose on motorists who have strictly conserved gasoline is undoubtedly a factor which would receive consideration before such a plan was introduced.

Unable to Attend

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Katherine Lewis, Ottawa mother who has represented the mothers of Canada in every Remembrance Day observance at the National War Memorial, will be missing from this year's ceremony. Mrs. Lewis, now 88, has been forbidden by her doctor to attend the service.

Winnipegger Lost Eye

WINNIPEG (CP)—Lieut. John E. Thompson, member of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada, and former reporter on the Winnipeg Tribune, who was taken prisoner at Dieppe, lost his left eye when the Canadians stormed Nazi positions.

He was today received a letter from him, sent from a German hospital.

Axis Loses 100,000 Men in Egypt

Mystery Fleet Raises Axis Fear Of Second Front

By Associated Press
Axis and neutral reports that a mighty British fleet has put out from Gibraltar on a mysterious expedition into the Mediterranean were capped today by an open German expression of fear that the United Nations were setting the stage for a second front in Europe.

All Allied sources have been silent on these reports, which began in the past week with a dispatch from La Linea, Spain, that 125 war vessels and other ships had assembled at Gibraltar and pyramided today into these developments:

1. A broadcast by the Nazi-controlled radio at Hiversum, the Netherlands, that "there is no doubt in Berlin that the British aim is to capture north African ports in order to set up a second front from there."

2. A broadcast from Berlin circulated the idea that a convoy battle already was in progress in the western Mediterranean involving "a very strong British convoy from Gibraltar bound for a destination about which various suppositions have been put forward."

The German method of presenting this, perhaps on a fishing expedition for information, was to lay it on "foreign reports" which have not appeared from any other source and say that military quarters in Berlin declined to discuss them.

Battleship Rodney Heads Navy Escort

3. Axis reports said the convoy, covered by a heavy umbrella of planes, left Gibraltar Thursday and included transports, freighters and tankers under a big naval escort including the British battleship Rodney.

4. This conflict, however, with advances from La Linea, which said the Rodney, two cruisers, two aircraft carriers and a number of destroyers and auxiliary vessels still were at the British stronghold, where two more transports had arrived from the Atlantic Friday.

The additional transports, this report said, were believed to have put in at Gibraltar to take aboard troops for the Mediterranean.

La Linea advised said the aircraft carrier Argus, five heavy cruisers, 27 destroyers and 24 merchantmen, including several tankers, had sailed through the strait into the Mediterranean and that two big tankers and three destroyers had left later to join the convoy.

5. A report from Algiers, Spain, said authorities at Gibraltar had confiscated all barres, pontoons and d-d covers privately owned and, according to the Spanish Cifra Agency, British forces had rehearsed landing manoeuvres on the shore beneath the fortress.

4-engined Bombers Take Off in Relays

6. Other Spanish reports Friday added two more British cruisers and several United States destroyers to the naval might reported gathering in Gibraltar harbor and said more United States destroyers were expected there.

7. Four-engined bombers were mentioned as taking off in relays to escort the convoy through the strait.

A dispatch from the German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau observed that it was "quite unnecessary" to mass such strength to reinforce Gibraltar's own defenses, and suggested that it was being made the springboard for a new United Nations' drive.

The Reuters correspondent in Tangier reported the expectation of Axis sources there that the war would spread soon to French territory in Africa, with Allied landings in French Morocco or at Dakar.

In England, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin said he felt that "our turn is coming," and thus joined company with two other British Commonwealth statesmen, Sir Stafford Cripps and Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, who have pictured developments on the Mediterranean shores in recent days as the possible turning of the tide, and have hinted at more Allied initiative still impending.

Convoy Fights Off U-Boat Wolf Pack, Loses 1 Vessel

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Allied convoy recently fought a three-day battle with an enemy submarine pack in the north Atlantic, the United States Navy Department disclosed today, and at least one Allied merchantman was sunk.

The fact that the battle had been fought with depth charges and torpedoes churning the ocean for so many hours on end was given out by the navy incidental to its announcement of the sinking of the merchant vessel, a medium-sized craft of Panamanian registry.

There were 40 survivors of that ship who were landed at an Allied port after four days in life rafts and rowboats. A neutral ship picked them up and brought them to shore and they since have returned to the United States.

The ship went down "on a Sunday afternoon in September," the navy said, declining otherwise to fix the time of the action or to disclose whether more Allied vessels were destroyed by the submarine pack.

Hanging of Stephan Indefinitely Staved

CINCINNATI (AP)—Judge John Hicks of the U.S. circuit court of appeals today staved indefinitely the hanging of Max Stephan of Detroit, convicted of treason.

The court is considering Stephan's appeal from the death sentence ordered by Judge Arthur Tuttle. Judge Hicks made the stay effective until further orders of the court.

Stephan was convicted of giving aid to a German flier, Lieut. Peter Krug, who escaped from a Canadian war prisoners camp at Bowmanville, Ont.

"Counsel for Stephan, who was scheduled to be hanged Nov. 13, contended in a brief filed this week he had been indicted merely for acts of kindness toward the German aviator, on the latter's birthday.

Navy Week Nov. 22-28

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Navy League of Canada today announced the national observance of Navy Week from Nov. 22 to Nov. 28. The program will honor men of the navy and the merchant marine.

British 'Pour It On' Axis Forces in Egypt

As the British offensive rolls ever faster on the Egyptian desert, this picture of fighting action is radioed from Cairo. It shows British infantrymen, during an advance toward enemy positions, taking cover behind a knocked-out Axis tank as a big shell bursts in the background.

Marines Surprise Guadalcanal Japs; Edge Forward

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States navy reported today American troops had advanced to the eastward of their positions on Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons in what appeared to be a manoeuvre to isolate a threatened Japanese beach-head in the vicinity of Koli Point.

The advance was carried out against only light enemy resistance, a communiqué said, while on the western flank of the American defence area on Guadalcanal, marines again repulsed enemy counterattacks.

BOMBERS FOILED

The communiqué also reported that for the first time since Oct. 25 enemy bombers had struck at Guadalcanal but had failed to do any damage although clouds prevented American fighters from engaging them.

Meanwhile, U.S. airplanes maintained "a continuous patrol over enemy positions, bombing and strafing troop concentrations and supplies."

The Jap bombing attempt was made by a force of 27 bombers and escorting fighters Nov. 5. On the night of Nov. 5-6, the enemy attacked the American eastern flank in the vicinity of Point Cruz, a coast-land locality lying several miles to the west of the American-held airfield on Guadalcanal. These attacks were light and were readily turned back by marine jungle fighters.

The advance in the east was carried out by army troops the following day, Nov. 6. Army men crossed the tiny Malambula River, a few miles south of Koli Point on the north coast of Guadalcanal.

Logged between two Japanese forces awaiting a chance to spring on the American-held air base in Guadalcanal, marines and soldiers beat off several strong enemy assaults from the west, the navy reported Friday night.

They clung to their land gains obtained in an offensive that was started last Sunday, the navy said, and repulsed the counterattacks west of river with "heavy losses to the enemy."

Patriotic Appeal To Detroit Strikers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. War Labor Board appealed today to the patriotism of 7,000 workers in Detroit to halt a work stoppage which has tied up production in half a dozen war plants.

The workmen left their jobs Friday on a "holiday" because, representatives of the Mechanics' Educational Society of America said, of interference with their organizational activities by the C.I.O.'s United Automobile Workers.

Oscar L. Bard, president of the Michigan Tool Company, whose three plants were shut down, said items manufactured in the one-work gear division are necessary to every tank and battleship and several other war vehicles. Loss of these items, he said, would virtually stop work in several of the largest and most essential plants in the Detroit area.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Russian people celebrated today the quarter-century anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, an event which history may show to have left a more lasting imprint than any other of recent times. To a considerable portion of humanity it is the mightiest occurrence, not merely of these times, but of all time.

Anniversaries invite comparisons. Friday night Josef Stalin compared Russia's war situation of a generation ago with that of today to show how, at the moment, the Russian armies face the most formidable foe they have known. No exception can be taken to the grim realism of the picture drawn by the Soviet leader.

But the differences between the Russian situation today and that of 1917, or rather between the character of the Russian nation of 1942 and that of 1917, form one of the brightest features, perhaps the most heartening of all, in the prospects of the United Nations.

GLOOM IN 1917

The generation which is doing most of the fighting in this war is too young to remember the feeling of doom that settled over the Allies of that other war when the Bolsheviks took over. Although President Roosevelt, Anthony Eden and other leaders of the United Nations joined today in congratulating the Soviet Union, and especially in extolling the heroism of the Russian army and people, the October Revolution (so called because it came Oct. 25 of the old Julian calendar) was anything but a cause for rejoicing in 1917.

The original Russian revolution then was nearly eight months old. The weakness and incapacity of the first revolutionaries, following upon the evils and misfortunes of the Czarist regime, had brought Russia to a tragic plight. The Bolsheviks rapidly gathered power. Trotsky organized the party's military strength under the noses of the regime to be overthrown. Lenin emerged to sound the call for the new order. Nov. 7 the military revolutionary committee of the Petrograd (now Leningrad) Soviet seized power, and the next day turned it over to the All-Russian Congress of Soviets.

"Land, bread, peace," was the new slogan. A few months later came the peace the Allies had dreaded, the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk, signed March 3, 1918, which opened the Ukraine and the Caucasus to the Germans and gave the world a foretaste of what rule by the German conqueror would mean. Russia dropped out of the war. The second front of that day had collapsed. In the spring of 1918 the Kaiser and Hindenburg, "because of the absence of a second front in Europe"—to borrow the phrase Stalin applied to 1942—almost won the war.

Not only will there be a second front, says Stalin, because the Allies know that without it things "may end badly for all freedom-loving people," but "the day is not far off when the enemy will feel the force of new blows of the Red Army."

HE SEES CONTRAST

The contrast between 1917 and 1942 must have been vivid in Stalin's mind as he spoke, although he referred to those 10 days that shook the world a quarter century ago merely in a passing phrase. Few men alive can be so conscious of the difference. He alone of the revolutionary Titans survives. Lenin is enshrined in Moscow. Trotsky's ashes rest in a far away Mexico, which saw the tragic end in exile of his stormy career. Kameney, Rykov, Zinoviev and Bucharin, all have been "purged." Other political leaders of present day Russia were lesser figures in 1917. Today's military heroes, Timoshenko, Zhukov and the others were virtually unknown.

Make Slaves of Dutch

LONDON (CP)—Aneta News Agency said today Reichsminister Schmidt had announced that forced labor in German-occupied Holland would be extended Jan. 1 to include "one-fourth of all Netherlands youth."

New Courtenay Mayor

COURTENAY, B.C. (CP)—Charles Simms, mayor of Courtenay for the past 10 years, will not seek re-election in the civic elections next month. "I want to see someone younger in my place," he said in commenting on his decision.

Rommel Tries Stand at Fuka But Runs Again

CAIRO (AP)—With 100,000 of Rommel's total of some 140,000 desert troops captured or trapped and his tank strength grievously crippled, the British chase of the broken and tattered Axis forces swept on today past Matruh, Egyptian port almost halfway to the Libyan border from the starting point of the Allied drive.

The headlong flight of the once-proud Axis Africa Corps continued at a rapid clip, British headquarters reported in a communiqué which listed 20,000 Germans and Italians already captured along with 350 tanks seized in addition to hundreds of others knocked out, and 400 guns and uncounted thousands of vehicles in the hands of the Army of the Nile.

Far behind and mostly inland from the coastal road were six Italian divisions left in the lurch when Rommel pulled stakes on the El Alamein front. Mussolini's abandoned men, in a bad way without food and water, were reported waiting meekly to be picked up when British forces could get around to them.

Among the beleaguered Italians were the Bologna Division, which was on the southern sector of the El Alamein front, and the Trieste Division in the north, both including some of Italy's choicest troops.

At Fuka, 50 miles east of Matruh, the Axis forces tried in vain to take advantage of an escarpment which afforded some degree of natural defenses, but vigorous attacks by British armor nullified their feeble effort.

Rommel Left Little With Which to Fight

The figures given officially on Axis losses in manpower were considered here to be extremely conservative and estimates on how much manpower Rommel had left were lacking, but in the words of one military commentator "he has very little."

Earlier front dispatches that the Eighth Army already was fighting in the Matruh region were supported by the communiqué, which disclosed that low-flying Allied aircraft were pounding the enemy at a "point west of Matruh." It was not considered likely the Allied air forces would waste ammunition on anything but the main body of Rommel's dwindling forces.

Matruh is 104 miles west of El Alamein, where the great push started.

The 20,000 prisoners already accounted for represent at least one-seventh of Rommel's total manpower of perhaps 140,000 in the desert, it was believed. There was no mention of dead, wounded and uncounted prisoners.

In addition, British forces were mopping up a number of Italian divisions abandoned on the edge of the Qattara Depression when the Axis forces began the retreat from the El Alamein line.

The capture of 350 tanks and "many thousands of vehicles" was a crippling blow to the Axis army. Many Italian troops were reported stranded for the lack of transportation as Rommel apparently piled his German troops into available trucks and headed for Libya.

It was these riding troops who were being blasted off the roads of Egypt and scattered, dead and wounded, along the bordering desert sands.

Loss Represents Third of Force

At the highest estimate of Rommel's armored force, the 350 captured tanks represented a loss of one-third of his striking force. Some estimates of his original force placed his tank strength at 500 vehicles.

Allied forces in the immediate battle area were estimated by British quarters at 30 divisions, three of them armored, against 12 Axis divisions, including two Nazi and two Italian armored divisions and three motorized divisions.

Allied airmen, including Canadians, dived over the coastal road, choked with Axis troops and vehicles, dropping their bombs into the writhing columns and causing indescribable confusion.

Already Allied planes are using the airport at El Daba, 33 miles west of El Alamein. So swift was the Allied advance once it started that a special R.A.F. regiment captured more than 200 prisoners at the airport and destroyed more than 50 enemy aircraft, including several gliders, on the ground. The dispersal areas were strewn with Axis dead, mostly Germans.

While the mass of the remaining Axis armored equipment was believed headed for the Libyan border, there were reports of many enemy tanks in the desert south of El Daba.

The situation of the Italian divisions reported trapped in the desert is confusing. They are said to be stranded far south of the coastal road at the Axis anchor positions on the Qattara Depression.

One dispatch said New Zealand troops have passed between the Italians and the depression on a dash to the Libyan frontier to help pin Rommel's forces against the Mediterranean.

Alibi for Defeat Presented By Nazis

NEW YORK (AP)—The Germans, coming up with an alibi for their North African debacle, said today Britain had thrown its greatest air armada of the war into the Egyptian battle and grudgingly conceded Allied superiority there in men and guns as well as in planes.

The Berlin radio, quoting Nazi military quarters, said the German high command's report of heavy aerial thrusts against the British forces Friday meant that German and Italian air reinforcements had arrived.

"But," it added, "this does not mean the Axis air force has all ready attained air superiority in the Egyptian theatre of war, for the number of British planes never before has been so great in any British major offensive during the present war."

Then, going into the question of manpower and equipment, the Nazi propagandists manufactured a statement, which they attributed to a British source, that 1,000,000 Allied troops were taking part in the campaign. The Germans are the first to suggest such a high figure.

"It is doubtful whether the number of 1,000,000 men given by the British as taking part in the fighting on the Allied side in North Africa is correct," these sources were quoted as saying. "But it is renewedly confirmed that their numerical superiority in men and material is considerable. According to German estimates the British 8th Army in Egypt is now much stronger numerically than the entire British Expeditionary Force in France in 1940."

Berlin considers it very remarkable that the British are making these extraordinary efforts only there, where they quite obviously are fighting for themselves and not for the relief of their Soviet ally.

Survivors of Torpedoing Back Home in Victoria

Fifteen British Columbia seamen who survived the torpedoing of their ship in a submarine-infested sea arrived here today to tell how they had been rescued by British destroyers which, they believe, sank the marauding U-boat.

Only white casualty was David Barclay-Ross (1383 St. Patrick), Victoria, who is recovering in hospital at Durban, South Africa.

Horrocks said he believed the Chinese casualties managed to get off the ship all right, but perished in the burning oil which covered the water.

J. P. Whitworth of Vancouver was able to say with satisfaction: "I believe the destroyers caught and sank the sub that sank us."

The Victoria men reaching home today were Alexander J. Hill, 1234 Hillside; Anthony V. Appleyard, 965 Victoria Avenue; Hugh J. Tumilty, 3472 Bethune; Edward E. Stewart, 512 Northcott; William B. Harris, 316 Linden; William J. Coulson, 3079 Millgrove; Stanley Matthews, 1493 Myrtle; W. B. H. Horrocks, 649 Kennedy; William L. Butler, Mount Douglas Cross Road; Douglas Almers, Union Club; Arthur P. M. Agate, East Wellington; and Horace Gallier, 116 Prudeaux, Nanaimo.

All of the returning men, with his wife was on hand to greet his shipmates as they arrived from eastern Canada. Twelve of them were from Victoria.

OIL TANKS HIT

Anthony V. Appleyard, 965 Victoria Avenue, told how the torpedo smashed into the number 3 oil tank of the vessel, name of which was withheld for security reasons, one day early in August. "We couldn't stay aboard long," he said. "The fire spread pretty fast. Four Chinese in the engine room were casualties. A destroyer picked us up. The ship stayed afloat for about an hour after the torpedo hit."

"I was in the engine room when the torpedo struck. I cleared out quickly," said E. E. Stewart, 512 Northcott. "I was on deck half an hour helping lower lifebelts and rafts, then I jumped overboard and in another half hour was picked up by a destroyer."

Mr. Stewart, who has been 16 years at sea, was met by his wife, and he told of the torpedoed vessel burning "right up."

Mrs. Barclay-Ross said her husband was still in Durban. "He was quite seriously hurt, but I think he is getting along all right now," she said. She is commandant of the C.A.T.S. here.

Alex Hill, 1234 Hillside, said he was one of the few to get off on a lifeboat. He added with a statement at any time to the chairman of the Security Commission. "However, since Mori is not working for that commission, it appears to be a matter more concerning your department."

The letter also said that Frederick Field, a chartered accountant, had advised Mr. McPherson that a Mrs. Nagato, wife of an internecine, had come to see him. She alleged that Mori was demanding $300 from her for some organizational work.

Mr. McPherson wrote that his information was received in his office, had not come directly to him, and he could not vouch for the veracity of the woman's statement.

Mr. Wright gave evidence that Kobay Achi had been with his company for 22 years. "We considered him very reliable and responsible," he said, adding that when he last heard from the Japanese, he was in an Ontario internment camp. The inquiry was adjourned till Monday.

Alexander Tells Churchill
LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill received a personal message today from Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, British Middle East commander-in-chief, telling of the 8th Army's drive which has carried to a point south of Matruh.

Gen. Alexander's message repeated the list of prisoners and booty announced in the Cairo communiqué. Receipt of his message was announced by Mr. Churchill himself at 10 Downing Street.

R.A.F. Pounds Port, Shipyards

Genoa Blasted, 1,300-mile Raid
LONDON (CP) — Britain's big home-based bombers revisited Italy Friday night for the fifth time since late October, showering Genoa with fire and explosions which, by the Italians' own word, inflicted "notable damage" on Italy's most important supply port for the Axis armies in north Africa.

The Air Ministry called the attack "concentrated and effective" and the Italian communiqué itself said that "particular damage was reported in the centre of the town and in the eastern part notable damage was caused."

The long haul to and from north Italy over much of the length of continental Europe and twice across the Alps was made in bad weather, the British communiqué said, but the night sky opened over Genoa and the bombers were able to unload on clear targets.

Casualties so far counted were 20 persons killed and 50 wounded, the Italian communiqué said. Both it and the British bulletin placed the R.A.F.'s losses at two planes.

THIRD IN THREE WEEKS
It was the third night in three weeks that British "block-buster" bombs had fallen on Genoa which, besides its importance as a port, also is the site of the Ansaldo warship building yards.

Although there was no indication from the Air Ministry of the size of the raiding force, a D.N.B. broadcast that wave after wave of planes passed over Vichy after midnight and that the return flight lasted 45 minutes suggested the attack again was on a scale of 100 or more planes.

The R.A.F.'s heavyweight battering of Italy, whose people have shown signs of panic in the air assaults, apparently is coordinated with the offensive in north Africa. Rome's communiqué specifically complimented the Germans' discipline under air assault.

Genoa also was the target on the opening night, the eve of the 8th Army's offensive in Egypt. That was Oct. 22. The next night, big British bombers again blasted Genoa, causing such a scramble for shelter that dozens were reported killed in the crush, and also hit Savona and Turin. Milan was hit in daylight of the same day, Oct. 23, and again the following night.

A Canadian squadron played a part in the first smash at Milan. Friday night's attack was the first night raid on either the Italian or German homeland since then.

Only 13 R.A.F. planes have been downed in all five assaults on Italy was hailed by British sources as remarkable in view of the massive numbers involved, the enemy's opportu-

German Victims Of Stalingrad Litter Ground

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Red Army threw the Germans from two fortified positions in a factory area of Stalingrad today and held firmly from the Arctic to the deep Caucasus against Nazi efforts to crack the defence lines.

Grey-uniformed dead continued to pile up before Stalingrad gunpits. The Russians were reported to have handed out heavy punishment to the invaders on the Black Sea and Nalchik-Ordzhonikidze fronts.

About a company of German infantry fell before the counter-attacking Red Army troops at Stalingrad, the noon communiqué said.

The encouraging reports from the fronts came as Russians celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution and coincided with an assurance by Premier Stalin that new Soviet counterblows would soon fall on Hitler's battle-depleted armies.

MUST CLEAR SOIL

"We can and must clear the Hitlerite filth from our Soviet soil," Stalin declared in an order of the day.

While tension mounts in the fighting zones, the war leader said, the Soviet people have emerged from their trials with honor "and are filled with an unshakable faith in victory."

He said more than 8,000,000 invaders already have been put out of action and that the day is not far off when the German legions "watered down with Rumanians, Hungarians, Italians and Finns" will feel the force of fresh Red Army blows.

Messages of greeting and congratulation on the anniversary streamed to Moscow from friendly governments and individuals. Workmen took the day off, arranging to make up the lost time Sunday.

Storm Lashes Western Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Winds of from 85 to 100 miles an hour were reported sweeping the north coast of Camaguey Province today, threatening the north shorelands and perhaps all of western Cuba with tropical storm conditions.

The Belen College observatory reported at midnight the disturbance was moving west or west-southwest. The 85-mile-an-hour recording was made at Moron, near the centre of the island. Farther east the winds reached 100 miles an hour.

If the storm follows a west-southwest course it would affect all Cuba's westerly provinces, Pinar, Del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara.

Urge Amalgamation

VANCOUVER (CP) — A plan for amalgamation of retailers will be carried from the B.C. Board of the Retail Merchants' Association to the Dominion conference in Toronto Nov. 18 by W. S. Charlton, delegate from the provincial board.

The policy, approved by the B.C. Board, was recommended by various classifications of retailers in the association here and will be tendered to the conference as a suggestion to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The plan would bring about "orderly amalgamation" of many firms and reimbursement of others.

Says Airport Land Bought Too Dearly

GLADSTONE, Man. (CP) — Premier John Bracken told the district branch of Canadian Legion here Friday night that he would not want to be the public man called on to defend the purchase with public funds of farm lands in the Gimli, Man., district for $72 an acre.

(The premier was referring to the recent purchase by the federal government of land near Gimli for an airport site. The transaction is at present undergoing investigation by a House of Commons subcommittee on war expenditures, under the chairmanship of Hughes Cleaver.)

"There was carelessness somewhere," Mr. Bracken said.

Bracken Presents Post-war Charter

GLADSTONE, Man. (CP) — Premier John Bracken of Manitoba today had before the people a postwar charter of 14 points which he advocated in an address here to the Gladstone and district branch of the Canadian Legion.

Speaking to Legion members Friday night, he suggested what he called a "people's charter" to guide public leaders and the Canadian people after the war.

He said the charter would call

Victory Loan Workers Drive for High Record

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's third victory loan reached a cumulative total of $879,573,300 at the close of business Friday, national headquarters announced today. Already well past the minimum objective of $750,000,000, workers across Canada were reported engaged in a last-minute drive to push the final total to the highest possible point.

The new total carried the third victory loan some $27,000,000 beyond the final figure of the second victory loan. At a corresponding stage the second loan had a cash total of $768,960,800. Friday's business amounted to $37,607,750 and brought the total number of subscribers to 1,218,969, officials reported. General canvass subscriptions now number 674,547 and employee payroll subscriptions 538,520, it was announced today.

Among the large subscriptions announced from Ontario were Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., Toronto, $3,000,000, and Wright-Hargreaves Mines Ltd., Toronto, $1,000,000.

With Vancouver and Charlotte-town going over the top, all larger municipalities in the eight provinces from which reports were received at national headquarters today have now passed their objectives. Moose Jaw is still well in the lead with 166 per cent. Sherbrooke has moved up into second place with 141 per cent and Lethbridge is third with 136 per cent.

Six more units in British Columbia have exceeded their quotas in the loan campaign, making 37 out of 45 to get their objective. The latest units to finish are: Burnaby, Surrey-Langley, Chilliwack and district, southern Okanagan, Prince George and Cowichan district.

Meeting Observes 25th Anniversary Of Soviet Russia

Political labels and titles, class distinctions and the like mean nothing in Russia now, said Harrison Brown, traveler and lecturer, at a public meeting Friday that filled the Chamber of Commerce auditorium to capacity. All that matters now in the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, he said, is whether or not a man or a nation is for or against Fascism.

The meeting, called by the Friends of Russia Society, marked the 25th anniversary of the October Revolution of 1917 and was presided over by Mayor Andrew McGavin; it heard, besides Mr. Brown, the chief speaker, Bob Ker, well-known communist who was recently released by the Canadian government after a period of internment under the Defence of Canada Regulations.

Advocating immediate opening of a second front to aid Russia without delay, Mr. Brown said that if the Germans in Europe or the Japanese in the Pacific are allowed time in which to consolidate their gains, the conflict may go on indefinitely with needless loss of millions of lives.

Referring briefly to Britain and the British cabinet, Mr. Brown said it was suicidal to leave in power men who had betrayed Republican Spain.

TIME LIMIT SET
"There is a time limit in which the war may be won," he said, "and if it continues beyond that the result may be chaos."

He urged the Canadian people to add their voices to the demand for immediate military action to halt the consolidation of enemy gains. If this was not done, he said, "we may never see peace again, or be forced into a false peace, engineered by the appeasers in collaboration with the Fascists."

Praising the magnificent stand of the Red Army since Russia entered the war, particularly in the heroic defence of Stalingrad, Mr. Brown recalled the first Great War, when, he said, Russia had filled the breach in 1915 by holding the line.

for the workers and farmers to share in the nation's income, and the right of public and private enterprise to "a fair day's work for a fair day's pay."

Revealing Canada's Spirit

JUST HOW MUCH MORE THAN THE nominal sum of $750,000,000 Canadians have subscribed to the Third Victory Loan will not be known until tomorrow. As this is written the figure stands at $879,573,300, or $129,573,300 beyond the minimum amount for which the Minister of Finance had asked. With today's totals added, therefore, the aggregate of new money taken in may not be far short of the billion mark. Last February's issue reached $996,796,900; but on that occasion $153,579,000 was represented by conversions of other securities. That policy has not operated this time.

Canadians can be well pleased with this manifestation of faith in their own country—faith in the victory upon which the survival of their liberty depends. Apart from the dollar return which this third loan has attracted, however, and no apology is required for calling it a success, it should be interpreted by the government at Ottawa as an unequivocal demand from the people of this Dominion that nothing be left undone which will in any way contribute to the more efficient prosecution of Canada's share in this global conflict. This voluntary lending of hard-earned money in such a huge sum speaks volumes for the resolute spirit of the nation of people in all walks of life, and particularly the "little people" of Canada.

Granted, every investor in a Victory Bond displays excellent judgment; it is the best "umbrella" for a rainy day anybody could possibly buy. And it protects all other investments as well. But it is not always easy to persuade some people that a hundred-dollar bond in the safety-deposit box is as good as $100 in the care of the savings bank; less simpler still is it to convince them that it is better—because a bond earns double the amount of interest annually. We mention this matter again because the success of this Third Victory Loan has demonstrated a change in public feeling toward securities which carry on their face the guarantee of the Dominion in precise terms—when the bond will be redeemed and what it will pay out to its owners every six months by way of interest dividends.

The number of individual subscribers on this occasion, moreover, should be taken as a happy and encouraging augury for a steady increase in the sales of war savings certificates and stamps to help to meet the national treasury's requirements. Oversubscription of this loan, of course, does not mean that Mr. Halsey has obtained all the money he requires for some time to come. Canada has lent him during the last three weeks just enough to tide him over until the end of March. When he introduces his next budget to Parliament he will tell Canadians what he requires for the following fiscal year. How much additional taxation he will have to ask Parliament to impose will depend, to some extent, at any rate, upon the amount of new money that is voluntarily loaned to him in the form of purchases of certificates and stamps—these being just the same kind of profitable investment as the bonds now to be issued.

Another comforting point about the successful campaign just closed is the fact that so many Canadians now really feel they have a definite stake in their country—that, while they are not able to don the uniform, or render some of the more spectacular forms of service, they saw to it that the men who are doing the fighting shall not go short of the tools. And all these savings, by the way, will come in handy when war production gives place to the normal processes of peace.

Nearing A Rout?

BY PIECING TOGETHER THE CON- tents of the official communiqués and dispatches from correspondents of the various news agencies it is possible to obtain a fairly reliable detailed account of the damage which General Montgomery's Eighth Army did—and continues to do—to the Afrika Korps of Marshal Rommel. Out of an estimated strength of 15 divisions composed of Germans and Italians no fewer than 20,000 prisoners already have been counted, while between 60,000 and 80,000 of Mussolini's Fascists are tired, hungry and thirsty somewhere between the Qattara Depression and the Mediterranean—and are merely waiting capture when, as one dispatch puts it, "British forces can get around to them."

It is also officially announced that at least 350 enemy tanks have been captured, with hundreds of others knocked out, while 400 guns and uncounted thousands of vehicles are now in the hands of the British forces. But the "disorderly retreat" has not yet become a rout, because Rommel's men tried to stage a delaying action at the Fuka escarpment, only to be forced to get on with their hurried westward movement. Under day and night pressure from low-flying Allied aircraft, however, the once much-vaunted Afrika Korps and the legend of Rommel's incomparable leadership and strategy are passing into the limbo of vanished hopes.

From no United Nations capital so far has come any reply to Axis reports of the presence at Gibraltar of a vast assemblage of British warships, airplane carriers, and transports; not a word, moreover, is heard of the German report that these ships already are steaming eastward in the Mediterranean; neither London nor Washington is "biting." From Nazi sources this morning came another "feeler." This was a hint over the German-controlled Norwegian radio that the Allies were about to begin action against the French North African ports. Other suggestions include the prospect of a "demonstration" before Casablanca, Tripoli, or near the Italian mainland. Another proposition is confined to the simple statement that mechanized troops and aircraft will be landed somewhere in western Libya in order to make sure of the complete destruction of Marshal Rommel's Afrika Korps and the whole of its equipment, unless, of course, surrender is considered the better part of valor.

What can be said with certainty, as we contemplate the great victory of the desert, is that Hitler and his gang are now getting a full dose of the medicine they dispensed in other times—the war of nerves. New United Nations action may end it sooner than may seem possible on the surface. Even the French fleet may enter into the considerations of the reported assemblage of Allied naval power at or near Gibraltar.

Varying the Complaint

SHEER WEIGHT OF VISIBLE CONDI- tions has plainly discouraged our morning contemporary from further repetition of its hackneyed phrase that the King government is pursuing nothing but a "middle-of-the-road" war policy. No doubt it has observed that some prominent Canadians who would blush if they were called Liberals have had some sensible and truthful things to say about the Dominion's contribution to the cause of the United Nations. So the Columnist has chosen to use a new form of complaint, oblique and exposed to challenge as it is, to keep its grumble alive. It was discussing parliamentary government the other day and advanced the argument that because Parliament in Britain is in session throughout the greater part of the year, "much is gained in the way of the perpetuation of responsible government." Hence this:

"There is a lesson for Canada in the course of politics in Great Britain. Here there has been a tendency, on the part of the government, with its steam-rolling majority, to reduce the House of Commons to relative impotency. That has not happened in Great Britain. There, as the Yorkshire Post says: 'The government has shown itself consistently ready not only to render account of its policies to Parliament, so far as national security allows, but to give time for replying to parliamentary criticism.' . . . It is a good thing because the war effort of a free country gains immensely if the people, instead of being kept at a distance and required to obey orders without asking why, are treated by the government as partners in a great national enterprise and invited to make some conscience of what they do."

We do not know whether the morning paper desires the Dominion Parliament to remain constantly in session, running the risk of being accused of "spendthrift zeal," a favorite complaint of our contemporary, but we are intrigued by its reference to the government's "steam-rolling majority." Has it forgotten that the British House of Commons boasts of 384 Conservatives on whose conduct through the appeasing years their "partners"—or the electorate—have not had an opportunity to pass judgment? And perhaps it does not know that the Yorkshire Post is the most influential provincial mouthpiece of British Toryism—notwithstanding anti-appeaser Anthony Eden's family association with its financial and editorial control. And it is well to remember that the people of Canada did endorse the King administration in preference to a "national government" which the Conservatives proposed in 1940; but the Colonist, somehow, does not like any Liberal government. Does it really know why?

To Combat Malnutrition

AT LEAST 50,000 CANADIANS ARE absent from their work every day through avoidable illness, with a loss in wages amounting to $50,000,000 and a production loss of $75,000,000. The figures are from the report of the Health League of Canada, which attributes a large proportion of the illness to poor nutrition. That a proportion of our population, of the size reflected in these figures, should be poorly fed, seems surprising when we consider that Canada produces in abundance everything that a healthy diet requires.

The Department of Pensions and National Health has accepted the challenge to do something about this serious state of affairs. Through its Nutrition Services Branch it is preparing to launch an advertising and educational campaign to make Canadians more "food conscious." Its program will recognize the three principle causes of malnutrition as it is known to exist in Canada: 1. Economic: People who cannot afford even a minimum adequate diet and who must be helped to make the best use of available money. 2. Educational: Since malnutrition can still occur when plenty of money is being spent on food, there is need for information on wise purchasing and preparation of foods. 3. Indifference: Many people do not apply their knowledge to what to eat.

Of the value and need of a campaign as outlined, there can be no question. The loss in time and output caused by absenteeism, which in turn is due to malnutrition, constitutes an economic waste that is too costly, especially in time of war. On us all there is a responsibility to co-operate in spreading and making effective the message of better nutrition.

GIBBERING FELLOW

A POOR, WEAK-MINDED, gibbering fellow writes in a Vancouver paper about the joys of gardening and such, in the crisp days of autumn. This is a common aberration in the beginner and the amateur. The experienced hand can afford to sit back and observe it with a sad, charitable smile.

This fellow in Vancouver says that the winter is the real season of pleasure in the garden for the true believer. He paints a beautiful picture of our mild winter, settling down on the coast of British Columbia after exhausting all its anger and cold on the prairies. He even laments the fine old vigorous winter of Ontario, where at least you knew that the season has changed; whereas, here, on this coast, it is almost impossible to be sure what season you are in.

We miss the fine old immemorial thrill of the seasons, which has been one of the most fundamental experiences in our species since it began. We miss the small boy's thrill of looking out one morning and finding snow on the ground, and rushing up to the attic to find our skates, and tramping out through the clean snow to the woodshed to inspect the toboggan. In the east the seasons are each a separate and new adventure, like a spectacle suddenly revealed on the stage when the curtain goes up. Here we float languidly from fall into winter and winter into spring, hardly aware of it.

But this poor misguided fellow in Vancouver persists in believing that the gardener and countryman of our coastal country still feels the ancient satisfaction of the seasons, despite the climate. The gardener, says he, can know the changing season because he goes beneath the soil and there, at this time of year, when all vegetable life seems to be resting, he finds the bulbs already ready sprouting, the daffodils sending out their yellow spurs, the crocuses pushing upward vigorously, working all unsuspected on the night shift.

MADNESS

THE NEWLY TRANSPLANTED CITY dweller does find these joys in the country. He is amazed at the glories of scenery, color, and rich earth which he, has never suspected in his steam-heated city apartment. He rushes out, breathes the air deeply and goes a little mad. And then, if he can string a few words together, he writes to the newspapers about his great discovery. I made a living that way for some years myself. It was, of course, obtaining money under false pretences, but the police never caught up with me.

After a few years of experience the countryman grows wiser and sadder and stops writing in the newspapers. If he must write he turns to something easy, like politics, economics, and the world-revolution. These he can discuss without too much distortion of the truth. For the countryman learns in due time that the joys of the soil are counterbalanced heavily by the terrible responsibilities of the soil, and at this season those responsibilities are likely to prove overwhelming.

This is the season of chaos in the soil. This is the season, out here in the country, when leaves swirl down in a brown blizzard, and while they are nice to write about and keep me in groceries for a good many years of writing, in reality they are a terrible, unmitigated nuisance.

Let the young and inexperienced countryman write his lovely odes to the west wind, his lush and sticky columns about the rich leaf mold for his garden; the veteran bends grimly to the task of raking up the leaves as they grow heavier every day with rain, painfully lugs them through the damp bush to a place of confinement, picks them one by one, with icy fingers, from the shrubs and prickly roses, staggers for weeks over the dead weight of them, kneels for weeks over them in the rock garden until he is full of cold and rheumatism, stands waist deep in the pond to clean them out and ends with a passionate resolve to cut down every oak tree in the place; but by that time he is too exhausted to do it.

DESPAIR

AS FOR THE BULBS, sprouting so bravely down there in the earth, they sound fine in print, but the fellows who write about them seldom have to dig them up. When a man has dug all day and bent down on the average of 20 times a minute to pick up a daffodil and replant it, he is not likely to write a piece about it in the papers. He is likely to go to bed for a week with neuritis, lumbago and melancholia. This, indeed, is the season of despair for those who have made the fatal mistake of selling themselves to the earth. This is the season when all seems lost, when the earth is in chaos, when the vegetable garden is a dismal wreck in need of digging and too soggy to dig, when the flower garden cries out for attention, when there is never time to do half that must be done before the spring. The countryman, looking out upon it all, looking out on the chaos and wreckage of old growth and new growth already under way, feels like the old woman who lived in a shoe, and would gladly change places with her. And if he writes pieces in the paper in praise of winter you may be sure it is to earn money to pay his way to California or to hire a gardener who will do the job for him.

Let us have no more nonsense about this. Let us have a little honesty after all these years of deception. This is a miserable season on the soil, in the soil and under the soil. Do not be deluded by fellows who write in the newspapers but listen to one of them who is reformed and regrets his early deceptions and mispent life. Enjoy your freedom while we, the slaves, are bound to the soil and can never escape again.

SIDE GLANCES

"Those shell-rimmed glasses are only camouflage! She pretends to be intellectual, but I notice every time she goes to the library she manages to walk home with a date!"

The Fountain

Gay, ah gay and bright—
Lighter even than light,
Glitter the tossed globes of turning dew!
Higher—higher—
Lit to sparks of ruby and rainbow fire
Wherever the gold sword of the sun smiles through.

Who would have dreamed that water, dark and cool
In pond or pool—
Water, translucent where it licks the land—
Crystal-water-colours in the hand—
Could so with a flick, a twist, a spin, be made
Star-drops of sapphire, amethyst, amber, jade?

Never such cold clear
Sedimented jewels swung from an empress's ear
Or lay in sweet unrest
On Beauty's breast:
Never such jewels as these that will outstay
No moment of the day,
But having put their instant glory on,
Are gone.

War Fare Healthier

By JANE STAFFORD

Comfort for persons here disturbed by the prospect of one cup of sugarless coffee per day for the duration, perhaps a meatless day per week and probable restrictions in butter and in variety of vegetables appears in the report of Sir John Boyd Orr, director of Great Britain's Bureau of Nutrition, to the American Public Health Association.

Britain in the fourth year of war is down to something like iron rations, with all luxury foods cut out, but the diet of the people in Britain from the view-point of health is about as good as it was before the war, Sir John declared. There are no signs of malnutrition, and child health is actually better than before the war.

Wealthy people are eating about one-third less food than before the war, while the poor are getting diets much richer in vitamins and minerals. Drastic changes in the national diet have been brought about, Sir John said, with almost complete absence of grumbling. There is no food hoarding; it is definitely not the thing to do, according to universal public opinion.

Britain has won the war on the food front partly through lend-lease shipments of food from America, for which Sir John expressed heartfelt gratitude to the United States and Canada, and partly through greatly increased production of food and milk at home. The amount of land under the plow in Britain now is 50 per cent greater, representing an increase of 6,000,000 acres, than it was before the war, when two-thirds of England's food was imported. There appears to be no farm labor manpower problem in Britain. Men, women and children, Sir John said, all work in their gardens and allotments after they have finished their day's work in factories, offices and schools.

Britain intends to win the peace on the food front by keeping home production up to a two-thirds increase. Sir John warned that American nations will have to increase their food production greatly for the job they and the British Commonwealth of Nations must do to avoid postwar defeat on the food front.

WILL YOUR WAR-TIME JOB BE A PEACE-TIME CASUALTY?

It's easy to get a job today . . . easy to step into high wages and full employment. But what of the future? What of the world of tomorrow?

One thing is sure—there will be no place in it for the untrained man. But, for the man who knows his job—and can handle it with understanding, skill and speed—it will be a world of unprecedented opportunity.

Similkameen Story Told to Society

Rev. John Goodfellow of Princeton, who has spent many years in collecting legend, folk lore, and facts of Similkameen, the valley drained by the river of that name, and lying between Hope, Penticton, Merritt and the American boundary, told his "Story of the Similkameen" Thursday night to a large audience of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Historical Association.

The drama of Similkameen history is divided into five acts, he told them. The first, the time of the Indians, is still remembered by many of the old natives of the valley from whom he obtained his information. He added that many of modern theories and methods of warfare were perhaps not reasoned out but were put in practice by the Okanagan and Thompson Indians of the valley.

With the advent of the first fur traders in 1813, and the gold strike in 1860, the Similkameen became a white man's country. The gold boom made Granite Creek in 1885, the third largest town in B.C. By 1900 it was deserted.

STUMBLED ON COPPER

The fourth act began in 1888 when a hunter, Jameson, and his son, stumbled on what later became the rich Sunset copper mine. Copper Mountain was opened up and now provides one of the most vital industries of the region. About the same time coal was discovered near Princeton.

The last phase of Similkameen development came with the Great Northern Railway which was put through the valley in 1909 and in 1915 was completed to the coast. The Hope Road, a gravel trail rising to 6,000 feet, was started in 1860, but, said Mr. Goodfellow, "if the Alaska Highway had been built at the same rate as the Hope Road it would not be completed until 3542."

SHOWS BEAUTY OF COUNTRY

Mr. Goodfellow showed colored slides which he had taken to show the beauty of the country. Great masses of blue and white lupens, Indian paintbrush and tall yellow pines are characteristic of the valley.

Mrs. A. S. Christie asked for a delegation to approach the City Council concerning the Helmsken and Sir James Douglas home sites, adjoining Thunderbird Park, which would form the proposed Douglas Park. This would be to commemorate the centenary of the city next year. It was also moved that the society write to the Postmaster-General to ask for a special stamp for the centenary of Victoria. This was heartily endorsed by E. Rowebottom, who offered the collaboration and financial aid of the Department of Trade and Industry in marking local historical sites in the near future.

To Be Checked

VANCOUVER (CP)—William McKinstry, official of the Vancouver Selective Service Bureau, said Selective Service officials are enforcing a new regulation forbidding "drifting" of workers from city to city except by permit.

"No worker can leave one city to go to another in search of work without first getting a permit from the Selective Service Bureau in the city in which he resides," Mr. McKinstry said. "If permission is granted, the worker is required to state his destination and to report to Selective Service officials there immediately on arrival."

Tinned Rations Intrigue Local Cwacs In England

By ROSS MUNRO

A BRITISH PORT (CP)—The first detachment of the Canadian Women's Army Corps—eight officers and 101 other ranks—landed here recently with the great troop convoy which crossed the Atlantic.

Buoyant and cheerful young women, they caused a sensation along the docks and in the station as they landed from their troopship in trim khaki uniforms.

The girls came down the gangway of their ship in full marching order. Over their greatcoats they wore respirators at the alert, anti-gas capes and steel helmets, water bottles and haversacks slung over their shoulders.

The women soldiers, beaming with pride and enthusiasm, looked smart and keen, and even put some of the regular fighting men in the shade for their military appearance.

STARTED TO SING

They broke off to wait for their troop train to London and started to sing almost immediately. The long shed by the wharf echoed to the singing of current hits and some of the Cwacs own songs.

This disembarkation port had never seen anything like this, nor had the staid, gloomy old station where they entrained. There never was a troop train, either, like the one which took them to London. They started with song, and many hours later, at midnight, when they reached London, they still had enough pep to sing a few melodies.

Maj. Alice Sorby of Winnipeg, staff officer Canadian military headquarters, went aboard the troopship to greet the new arrivals, who were commanded by Capt. Francis (Dime) Riley, whose husband is Capt. C. S. Riley of an overseas field regiment.

During the voyage the Cwacs had their own quarters on the ship, sleeping in wooden bunks in cabins. All ranks were permitted into the officers' lounge, and they were the big hit of the trip over.

The girls had been issued tinned field rations, for their train meals.

There was one tin of meat and vegetable stew and another of biscuits and candy, sugar and coffee powder. With no cooking facilities, the women proved as ingenious as their male comrades heating stew tins on radiators and "scrounging" hot water for coffee.

This was the first time any of them had had field rations, but they turned the meal into a picnic and enjoyed it.

The train stopped at a station and the Cwacs leaned out of the windows to talk to British Tommies on duty there. One young Cockney corporal was startled when one of the girls shouted to him "What's cooking, cookie?"

VICTORIA GIRLS

In one car was S. Sgt. Mary Mackay of Vancouver, who was with the women's R.A.F. in Britain in the last war. A trio of privates—Margaret Roberts of Victoria, Helen Alberry of Courtenay, B.C., and Stella Cronan-Bruce of West Vancouver—spent a lot of time thinking up new ways of cooking tinned rations.

Pte. Joyce Jelliff of Vancouver played bridge with several Canadian civilians traveling on the same train.

Other girls included Ptes. Jean Spence of Moose Jaw; Helen Weare, whose husband was taken prisoner at Dieppe; Gillian Hassey White and Olive Smith, both of Winnipeg; Ruby Anderson, Edmonton, and Kay Bublick, Lethbridge. A sergeant in the group was Helen Kozieky, Calgary.

In the early evening the train stopped again at a station and hot coffee and sandwiches were given the girls on the dark platform.

At midnight the train pulled into London and even after the long, tiring train ride the women in khaki were still full of life. As they strapped on equipment, another sing-song was started, led by Pte. Joan Allan of Victoria.

Other girls who joined in were Thelma Doty, High River, Alta., and Phyllis Tweedale, Vancouver. They were met in London by Maj. Gen. Jean Knox, head of the British auxiliary territorial services and were taken to quarters in London's West End by army bus.

The first draft comprised mostly clerks, stenographers, storewomen, typists, cooks, and they'll serve in any of the 45 different types of jobs the C.W.A.C. is doing in Canada.

Junior auxiliary to the Protestant Orphanage met Tuesday evening, the president, Miss Elsie Appleyard, presiding. The Misses Isabel Prowd, Mary Wakelyn and Audrey Cridge were welcomed as new members. During the past month a social evening was held at the home of Miss Margaret Hughes. A Halloween party was held at the Orphanage for the children. The auxiliary members are planning a rummage sale to be held on Saturday, Dec. 5, and donations may be left at 518 Fort Street. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 1, at 8:35, in the Memorial Hall. All members are requested to attend to help with the plans for the Christmas season.

Stephanie Campbell Quietly Wed Today To Naval Officer

Of Dominion-wide interest was the marriage very quietly solemnized this afternoon at 2.30 between Stephanie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon A. Campbell, Victoria, and Lieut. Robert Philip Welland, D.S.C., R.C.N., second son of Major and Mrs. H. E. Welland, of McCreary, Manitoba.

Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns performed the ceremony at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay. The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a smart angora wool two-piece in Wedgwood blue, trimmed with grey galyak fur, and a becoming hat of grey felt. She carried a small bouquet of deep red roses.

Miss Joan Fort was her only attendant, wearing a street-length frock of a delphinium blue wool, with hat in tabac brown, and carried a small bouquet of Rapture roses. Paymaster-Lieut. Commander Dudley Elcock, R.C.N., was best man.

As the bridal party left the church, fellow-officers of the bridegroom formed a guard of honor on the steps.

After the ceremony, a small reception was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Boak, Joan Crescent, where the customary toasts were honored as the bride cut the wedding cake.

Lieut. and Mrs. Welland left for a honeymoon of several weeks at an unknown destination, and on their return will take up temporary residence at the Glenshiel Hotel.

Wartime Cakes Feature W.I. Sale

Wartime cakes which looked none the less delicious because they conformed to conservation needs were a feature at the successful bazaar held by the Victoria Women's Institute Friday afternoon at the Sons of England Hall. Mrs. L. Schmelz convoked the affair, and Mrs. Clifford Johns, the president, welcomed the guests. Mrs. H. P. Hodges, M.L.A., declared the affair open, and was presented with a dainty corsage bouquet.

The stalls with their attractive wares did an excellent business, and bingo was a popular attraction as was tea-up reading. Much amusement was caused by the "art gallery" of old photographs of members, some of them taken in childhood, members guessing at the identity.

During the serving of tea, a delightful musical program arranged by Mrs. A. Gough caused much pleasure, songs being rendered by Mrs. R. H. Nash and Mrs. Gordon Brown, a newcomer to the city from the east, both being accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Gough. Mrs. A. Chapple gave two readings which were much enjoyed.

ENGAGEMENTS

BARKER—GRANBERG
The engagement is announced of Elsa G., daughter of Mrs. Ida Granberg and the late Magnus Granberg of Foremost, Alberta, to Wilfred A., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barker, Old West Road, Royal Oak. The wedding will take place on Dec. 5.

HARDING—DILWORTH

The engagement is announced of Jean, younger daughter of Mrs. J. W. Dilworth and the late Mr. Joseph W. Dilworth, to Harry R. Harding, R.A.F., London, England. The wedding will take place quietly at the end of the month.

Pro Patria W.A. met recently, president Mrs. B. Ripley in the chair. Mrs. Cherriff was thanked for the loan of her home for packing and shipping parcels to boys overseas. Final arrangements were made for the bazaar to be held early in December. A towel and apron shower will be held at the home of Mrs. Ball, 523 Cecilia Street, Nov. 27. A remembrance tea and court whist card party will be held in the V.W.I. rooms Monday at 8.

Victoria Chapter, Women of the Moose, will meet Monday in the K. of P. Hall at 8. All officers, escorts and committee chairmen to wear their formal dresses, as initiation of candidates will take place. The following are to act as sponsors: G. Warren, A. Spaven, C. Baker, D. Erickson, G. Kennedy and D. Spur.

Baker, F. Alexander, F. Goudie, Misses Mickey Parker, Jenny Gregg, Doreen Blaney, Doris Constable, Mary Hammond, Pat Jalland and Ann Alexander.

Social and Personal

Invitations are out for the wedding of Sidney Elizabeth, elder daughter of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward, Government House, Victoria, to Sub-Lieut. Glen McDonald, R.C.N., only son of Captain and Mrs. C. A. McDonald of "Hillcroft," West Vancouver, which is to take place at Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, Thursday afternoon, Nov. 12, at 3.30 to be followed by a reception at Government House. Miss Woodward returned this morning from Vancouver, where her aunt, Mrs. P. A. Woodward, entertained at a luncheon for her yesterday.

A delightful evening was spent at the home of Miss Margaret Hughes, 902 Heywood Avenue, Thursday, when, on behalf of the Provincial Board of Health and the Division of Vital Statistics, Miss Chrissie Watt presented a trillite lamp to Miss Peggy Beech whose marriage to Mr. Burton McDermott will take place shortly in Vancouver. Upon her arrival the guest of honor received a corsage of American Beauty roses and maidenhair fern, after which Miss Margery Symonds and Miss Eileen Lang presented her with a basket prettily decorated with yellow paper and gold chrysanthemums and filled with many useful gifts. A dainty buffet supper was served from an attractively-decorated table centred with an amber bowl filled with gold chrysanthemums. The rooms were also decorated in a profusion of bronze and gold chrysanthemums. Games and music were enjoyed during the evening. Other invited guests were Mesdames White, Miller, Lane, Scott, George and Crossley, Misses Marguerite Hasenfratz, Ruth Harrison, Barbara Unsworth, Janet Pitchford, Kay Heap, Frances MacNeil, Dorothy Baker, June Howard, Betty Thompson, Marjorie Cooper, Alison Chow, Edith Scott, Valerie Turner, Leila Garland, Audrey Brethour, Joyce Blunt, Margaret Hughes, Edith Barlow, Margaret McMartin, Dorothy Haynes, Beth McNair, Gertrude Dean and Evelyn Brown.

Members of the Colwood Women's Institute, and Colwood friends were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower Thursday afternoon in Colwood Hall, the guest of honor being Miss Daisy McBurney, whose marriage will take place this evening. Mrs. S. M. Vallis, president of the institute presented a corsage bouquet of talisman roses, together with a cake plate from the institute, and a quilt from the Willing Workers' Group. The guests included Mesdames G. McBurney, J. T. Gill, T. Millburn, F. A. Parker, J. Hopwood, R. W. Robinson, L. Smith, R. Fraser, C. Carnegie, W. M. Brown, E. H. Emery, J. W. Little, E. Wishart, C. A. Coombs, B. W. Parker, R. B. Murray, W. A. Wade, E. Peatt and the Misses A. Hodge, E. Wellsmith, M. Coombs and Elaine Gill.

Mrs. Gordon Money and her children arrived from Vancouver Friday to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wilson, St. Charles Street.

Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine and her little son, Joey, arrived today from Seattle to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ruggles, Royal Terrace, and to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Lieut. and Mrs. James A. Macdonell.

Miss Peggy Whyte, a November bride-to-be, was the guest of honor when the Misses Doris Lockley and Rose Gagliardi and Mrs. F. St. Pierre entertained jointly at the Empress Hotel at the tea hour this afternoon, the bride-elect's associates at the B.C. Electric Railway being fellow-guests. A dainty corsage bouquet and a Kenwood blanket were presented to Miss Whyte during the afternoon. Mrs. R. Davidson and Mrs. G. McTaggart presided at the flower-centred tea table. Others present were Mrs. G. Dawe, Mrs. G. West, Miss Creedon, and the Misses May Veale, Vivien Nock, Emileen Warder, Anne Wilson, Winnie Anthony, Mildred Holmes, Joan Douglas, Peggy Sutherland, Peggy Laughlin, Betty Newman, Dorothy Waldron, Sheila Troyer, Nora Sjöberg, Sadie Thorburn, Mary Cavin, Cora Wharton, Hilda Tinker, Nan Dick, Margaret Stewart and L. Ryan.

Miss Joyce Jalland and Miss Evelyn Strainger entertained at the home of Mrs. J. T. Jalland, 216 Moss Street, Tuesday night in honor of Miss Millie Harris, whose marriage to Pte. W. H. Pugh will take place in the near future. Mauve, white and pink chrysanthemums decorated the rooms and a basket in the same colors contained the miscellaneous gifts. A corsage bouquet of pink and mauve carnations, white heather was presented to the bride-to-be and her mother, Mrs. E. H. Harris, received a corsage bouquet of pink carnations. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a lace

Y.W.C.A. Officials Arrive to Inspect Hostess Houses

Arriving here last night from Vancouver, via Nanaimo, for a three-day visit in the course of a western tour, Mrs. J. L. Savage of Toronto, chairman of the personnel committee, remarked upon the whole-hearted manner in which western women were rallying to the war effort.

Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Sanderson are visiting Y.W.C.A. hostess houses across Canada to see for themselves what these institutions are doing for the wives, mothers and sweethearts of the servicemen.

Hostesses placed in charge of each house are hand-picked, Mrs. Sanderson said. "We have found that teachers or former nurses and community workers between the ages of 30 and 55 are ideal for these posts. There are a great many women in this category, ready, willing and eager to be of service, who would be most useful if they would sign on with us for the duration," she observed.

Hostesses are required to welcome and find homes for relatives and friends of servicemen, organize clubs, and find dancing partners for the young people. Also they give general information about the town or city in which the station is located; assist young brides-to-be with wedding arrangements, and generally look after visiting women during their stay.

While here they will visit the hostess houses at Sidney and take part in the opening Monday of the new Peters House, which has just undergone renovation and alteration, making it into a spacious and comfortable recreation centre for the girls of the C.W.A.C. at Esquimalt.

Women's Auxiliary to the R.C.A.M.C. will meet Tuesday at 2.30 p.m., in Y.W.C.A.

Six Victoria Girls Graduate Today In C.W.A.C. Class

Six Victoria girls were among the members of the third class, numbering 321, to graduate at the Canadian Women's Army Corps (C.W.A.C.) which completed its course today at Vermilion, Alta. The girls were Pte. Alice Abbott, Pte. Beulah E. Carr, Pte. Ida M. Cotton, Pte. Lillian M. Grant, Pte. Pauline E. Vincent, and Pte. Lorna Doull.

Other Vancouver Island girls graduating with the class were: Pte. Yvonne Vuor and Pte. Lila C. Wright, both of Alberni; Pte. Maud P. Byrne, Duncan, and Pte. Agatha M. McGiverin, Qualicum Beach.

Pte. Lillian M. Grant is well known as the organizer and leader of the Highland Lassies' Pipe Band of Victoria, which won honors in the Victoria Highland Games and the pipe band competitions. She hopes to organize the first women's pipe band in the Empire forces, and she and two of her musical companions in the C.W.A.C. had the honor of playing at the banquet held in conjunction with today's graduation. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant, 460 Moss Street, and has been on 48-hour leave with her parents here, returning to Vancouver last night.

Pte. Pauline Vincent is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Vincent of 1525 Fell Street, and has two brothers both in service, one with the army and the other with the air force. Prior to enlistment she was on the staff of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Pte. Ida M. Cotton, fourth daughter of Mrs. A. M. Cotton of 141 Gorge Road, attended South Park School and Victoria High School. She was elevator attendant at the Western Air Command, Belmont Building, before enlisting. Her sister, Pte. Sybil Cotton, also of the C.W.A.C., is in the office of the Engineers at Work Point Barracks.

Owing to a change of policy in connection with the training, part of the class finished its course a few days previous, and the remainder were discharged to their home units today. In the future there will be graduations every two weeks and new classes will come into the training centre every two weeks, so that the number graduating each time will be only half the capacity of the training centre.

Of the 321 to complete their course this week, 107 were from Alberta; 91 from British Columbia; 68 from Saskatchewan; 34 from Manitoba; 18 from Ontario, and one each from Quebec, Nova Scotia and Massachusetts.

St. Matthias' Evening Guild held a successful military whist card party, the next one being scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 2. The guild will meet Monday, at 8, at the home of Mrs. H. Barnes, 1657 Hollywood Crescent.

Bits and Pieces

By N. H.

"Tell it to the Marines!" The old tag, implying incredulity, will take on a new significance from now on. For women of Britain are serving in the Royal Marines, although officially attached to the Women's Royal Naval Service.

Overheard at the Victory parade recently: A very small boy and girl were standing in front of me when the flag was unfurled. The little girl looking very shocked, directed her brother's attention to a man who had failed to uncover his head. The little boy, his own hat held firmly under his arm, said airily: "Just don't take any notice of him, he doesn't know any better!"

With harassed employers today looking to women to help them out in many fields hitherto considered the prerogative of men, it is amusing to take a retrospective glance back a few years when their presence in the labor market was not so welcome. Looking over the columns of this paper in 1933, I came across a letter from a man who deplored, "the severe menacing aspect" of "women's salaries" upon men's industrial strength.

In his indignation he made the following rather naive suggestion:

"The solution of this problem lies in education. Music, art and all such relative satisfying diversions are really accessible for the accomplishment of women. If these arts were taught in the schools to girls instead of the commercial subjects, the desire to aspire to the realm of man would completely vanish. In place of the cold, calculating business woman would come grace and refinement, commensurate with times past, and a fit companion for man instead of a competing rival. Women have yet to realize that nature never intended her to assume responsibilities of men, but to assume gentle harmony which always asserts itself when trouble arises in family life."

Appropos of women working, a reader of this column writes to me as follows:

"I noticed recently in the newspapers that grandmothers are to be urged to care for their grandchildren to release their daughters for work in war industry. Poor grandmother! For years she struggled to raise her children, did without things, never went anywhere. Then, just as she thought they were nicely settled came the depression, and home they came with their husbands, babies and troubles. This passed, finally grandmother was free. She began to 'join' things, discovered she had a flair for organization. She met people, she read, she had fun. At home, the old chestfield was exchanged for a modern one, the kitchen was painted up and the whole house generally furnished. Grandmother was on the top of the world. Grandchildren came for a visit, but at night home they were not responsible for them. Then came the war. Grandmother is very patriotic yet, when trying to coax the baby to eat his strained vegetables, instead of throwing them on the floor, while she shouts at Junior to take his dirty feet off the chestfield, and at Mary to stop wailing on the kitchen walls. And many a grandmother will yearn for a nice quiet factory as she reflects that Sherman's famous remark was a masterpiece of understatement."

Very Rev. Dean Spencer Elliott will be the speaker at the meeting of Christ Church Cathedral Women's Guild and Sewing Circle on Friday. The lecture will begin at 2.30 and will be followed by the business meeting. Refreshments will be served. Those having work for the sewing circle are requested to bring it in between 2 and 2.30 or after the meeting.

MISS MARGARET HARRIS

The engagement is announced of Margaret Patricia, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Harris, 611 Wilson Street, to Sgt. James E. Jamieson, C.M.S.C., Pacific Command Headquarters, Vancouver, third son of the late Mr. J. A. Jamieson and Mrs. Jamieson, Kamloops, B.C. The wedding will take place quietly at 10 a.m. on Nov. 28 in the Church of Our Lady Queen of Peace.

SGT. J. E. JAMIESON

Plans for the Children's Christmas Party were discussed at the monthly business meeting of the W.A. to the Canadian Scottish Regiment, when an able committee was named, including Mrs. W. R. Russell, refreshments; Mrs. I. Dymint, toys; Mrs. W. Parker, fish pond; Mrs. G. N. Douglas, program; Mrs. Stuart Robertson, Christmas tree. Next of kin of the men of the 1st and 2nd Battalions are asked to phone Mrs. R. D. Harvey, G 5149, in order that the list of children to be invited may be completed.

A special Christmas shipment was made Oct. 24 to the 1st Battalion overseas, through the Red Cross facilities. This included 112 windproof jerseys; 88 pairs of socks, 19 sleeveless jerseys, 800 packages of razor blades, 803 bags of candy, 263 bags of nuts and raisins, and 125 Christmas cakes, approximately 200 pounds. The candy and razor blades were individually tagged with Christmas seals. By parcel post, 128 pounds of fancy biscuits were sent to the 1st Battalion and a special Christmas parcel to nine former Canadian Scottish men, now on the staff of a training school in England.

A vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. J. R. Kingham, Mrs. D. L. Macdonell and Mrs. Stuart Robertson, who arranged the details of shipment.

Match book sales for the month netted $40.48, and 62 woolen articles were completed in October. The next business meeting will be held Dec. 2. Those interested in attending the weekly sewing groups are asked to phone Mrs. W. R. Russell, G 3716.

Metchoin Red Cross Dance Raises $100

The Halloween dance in aid of the Red Cross given Friday night at the Metchoin Hall was a very successful affair. The music of the R.C.A.F. dance orchestra contributed largely to the enjoyment of the more than 300 people who were present. Spot dances and medleys were popular, and the three services were well represented on the dance floor.

The hall was gaily decorated with witches on broomsticks, their satellite bats and black cats, together with pumpkins and autumn foliage. Soft drinks were obtainable at the canteen, and sandwiches and cakes were served at supper time, plus tea made from donated rations, for which a small charge was made. In addition to the dance contests, there were two others for prizes—a fruit cake made and donated by Mrs. W. L. Mackenzie, and a doll, won by a member of the orchestra.

The net proceeds of the dance have enabled the Metchoin unit to turn over a little more than $100 to the Victoria branch, Canadian Red Cross Society. The members of the unit are grateful to the Metchoin Hostess Club for giving up their customary fortnightly Friday evening, on this occasion.

Among various helpers and organizers were: Cynteen, Mesdames Waterman, Brousseau, Red Cross.

1400 Guests Danced At Annual Police Ball at Hotel

Over 1,400 guests were welcomed at the 29th annual ball given by the Victoria Police Mutual Benevolent Association, held in the Empress Hotel. Uniforms of the three armed services predominated among the dancers, making a striking foil to the many lovely frocks worn by their feminine guests.

Official guests from out-of-town included Sergeant and Mrs. Munde and Detective and Mrs. Shirley, from Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. Jensen and Sergeant Day from Seattle.

The wartime note was sounded in the effective decorations. The backdrop on the orchestra dais carried painting of ships and guns and was flanked on either side by life-size figures of John Bull and Uncle Sam. The blue and yellow color scheme was carried out by streamers, and flags were also in evidence. Many wartime tunes were featured in the excellent music played by Wm. Tickle and his orchestra.

GIRLS' PIPE BAND

A novel and picturesque note was added to the grand march, led by Premier John Hart and Mrs. J. A. McLellan, followed by Chief of Police J. A. McLellan and Mrs. Hart, in the presence of the Girls' Pipe Band, under the leadership of Miss Nellie Small, when six of the band in their Highland kilts acted as markers for the grand march.

The ball was held under the patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward, Premier and Mrs. John Hart, Mayor and Mrs. Andrew McGavin, and Police Commissioners W. H. Davies and D. D. McTavish. Mrs. Davies, Mrs. McTavish, Alderman and Mrs. Archie Willis and Alderman and Mrs. B. Gadsden were also present.

Credit for the outstanding success of the affair goes to honorary chairman, Chief of Police, and management committee, Detective Jarvis, Sergeant Mercer and Constable Holmes; reception committee, Chief McLellan, Inspector Rogers, Inspector Caldwell, Detective Richards, Sergeant Barney and Miss Agnes Fye, policeman; master of ceremonies was Sergeant Woolsey, while the ticket committee included Sergeant Wilkinson, in charge, assisted by Constables Andrews, Briggs, Bannister, Douglas, Buckle, Averill, Morris, Kelly, Davidson, Bath, Wilson and Calvert.

Fifty per cent of the proceeds will be devoted to local charity, and the remainder to the Police Benevolent Fund.

Count on COLOR TO KEEP YOUR CHIN UP!

In the choice of a Dress, a Suit or a Coat COLOR is always a most important consideration. And almost imperceptibly, even with the "Best" things colors become less brilliant, less COLORFUL. And it's here that a "SANITONE" treatment can do such wonders.

A genuine "Sanitone" treatment is far more than just ordinary "Dry Cleaning," although it is also that, at its best. "Sanitone" cleans THOROUGHLY—right to the heart of the fabric. It gives colors new "Pep," the textures new softness. And our tailor-finish restores smart lines.

And in spite of wartime difficulties and restrictions you can count on New Method to serve you well.

Real Estate Board Plans Campaign To Publicize City

Plans for a publicity campaign to advertise Victoria and south Vancouver Island as a place for settlement after the war were discussed Friday noon at the Real Estate Board luncheon at Spencer's dining-room.

A report on the projected campaign was made by the advertising committee composed of Maj. H. C. Holmes, J. O. Brown and M. H. King. The committee suggested extensive use of the press and radio be made and the Real Estate Board co-operate with the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and the B.C. Government Travel Bureau.

Mr. King suggested it was necessary for the board to clean house to create a stronger organization for the campaign.

Maj. Holmes pointed to Los Angeles as an example of a city where climate properly advertised had attracted a large population. He said many persons would come to Victoria if (a) they knew about Victoria, and (b) if they could make a living here.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Victoria, he said, had the necessary pure water supply and the proper humidity and temperature for the establishment of a textile industry.

"I say very seriously," he said, "textiles have a natural affinity for Victoria and the textile industry is one which definitely will result in a great business here."

Hubert Lethaby, secretary, reported real estate salesmen were covered by unemployment insurance and said orders on national housing and war risk insurance had been compiled by the board.

BUILDING IF NECESSARY

R. H. Shanks, president, said the popular conception that building had been limited to $500 permits was wrong, and the application forms for the building of new houses for more than $500 were simple and straightforward. He said if the house was considered necessary a permit would be issued by Ottawa.

He also reported some interior firms were capitalizing on Victoria's position in the war zone and suggesting Vancouver Island was going to be evacuated by military order.

The board passed a resolution recommending that Remembrance Day be observed as a holiday by real estate firms.

No Appeal Planned

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harold Pritchett, district president of the International Woodworkers' Association, stated the association had decided against an appeal from dismissal of its action against the Canadian Western Lumber Company. The action was a prosecution of the company for alleged failure to bargain with a negotiating committee representing its employees.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

WHEN ONE reads where various lines of sport in other parts of Canada are finding it extremely difficult to operate through a shortage of players, it makes us realize just how fortunate Victoria sport followers are. Teams, and in some cases, entire leagues have folded their tents for the duration, yet sport is experiencing a boom in our town.

Take the hockey situation for instance. Two or three years ago it was a forgotten sport. Last winter the game came back with a bang and now, when hockey is taking a beating in many prairie and eastern points, Victoria come up with its finest league since the days of 1929. Who would have thought Victorians would get the opportunity to watch players of the calibre of Nick Metz and Bill Carse in action? In addition to these two name performers the five clubs of the new Island League include some of the finest minor league professional and senior amateur material available. Pretty nice setup for a winter evening's entertainment.

Then take the soccer situation. When Victoria was forced to give up its coast league franchise this season many of the football fans figured it was the death knell for their favorite game for the duration. But a strong local league springs up with five senior squads. To date the calibre of soccer is the finest seen in a Victoria circuit in years. Much of the added interest in the league fixtures can be attributed to the smart exhibitions turned in by the R.A.F. eleven from Pat Bay. These British lads have built up a large following. Then there is the added feature of the keen competition that marks sport engagements between the rival services.

Major Hockey Battles

Detroit Meets Leafs

At any other time Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs probably would rate top billing, but tonight their first meeting since the 1941-42 Stanley Cup finals falls wholly to obscure the New York debut of much-publicized (and much-maligned) Steve Buzinski.

If it weren't for Buzinski, the publicity drums would be heralding Detroit's return to the scene of the seventh game of that dramatic final series and proclaiming their desire for revenge against the Leafs. The drums aren't beating, but this initial test of strength between two of the N.H.L.'s top teams still is a hockey natural.

By right of conquest, the rollicking Red Wings are the hottest team in the league right now. Their 3 to 0 defeat of Boston Bruins and their 12 to 5 crushing of New York Rangers justify that rating, if their first-place standing doesn't. Leafs, despite some pessimism within their own ranks, showed they remain at least some of their Stanley Cup form by trouncing Rangers 7 to 2 in their only game to date.

CHIEF VICTIM

In drubbing Rangers, Leafs and Wings made Buzinski their chief victim. The 19 goals they scored against him in the two games provided a lamentable start for the 25-year-old goalie whom Lester Patrick plucked from Swift Current, Sask., intermediate Indians. Tonight, against Dick Irvin's promising Montreal

Today the rugby enthusiasts were out to watch their sport ushered in. A good league has been organized with the services providing all the competition. It is a cinch to produce hard, interesting play with Wednesday's Remembrance Day engagement between the Army and Navy certain to provide a lot of smart play. Basketball is going to get a boost with the entry of service clubs in many of the divisions. The boxing fans are also going to come in for their share of entertainment during the winter. Take tonight's show between the best mitt-slingers from the Army and Navy for example. One can be sure of seeing plenty of action with not a punch pulled.

Yes, we Victoria sport lovers can sit back and consider ourselves most fortunate. Anyone who has a hankering to take in a sports event during the next few months has no worries about where he will lay down his cash and take a look-see.

Ivan Temple, rotund secretary of the Island Hockey League, is in New Westminster today, attending the annual meeting of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association. From reports, we hear there is quite a movement to move the offices of the provincial association down to the coast. For years the only senior hockey in the province was located in the interior at such towns as Trail, Kimberley and Nelson. Now it is just the opposite, with the coast having command of the senior competition. Vancouver Island has a five-club league while a four-team circuit is slated to open on the mainland Monday night. Coast hockey leaders figure the time is ripe to bring the offices of B.C. president and secretary to the coast. That would eliminate the difficulty of attempting to conduct business with a provincial secretary now located in Nelson.

Army-Navy Soccer Match Wednesday

Soccer fans will be looked after for entertainment on the Remembrance Day holiday next Wednesday when the Army and Navy play their annual trophy challenge match at the Athletic Park, starting at 2.30. The Coach and Horses Cup, at present held by the Army, will go to the winning eleven. Wednesday will mark the third time the trophy has been competed for, with each service having one triumph to its credit.

Knockout for Nova

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Lou Nova, the heavyweight Yogi, launched a comeback attempt here Friday night by knocking out Ernie Nordman, Goodland, Kas., in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Nova, 208, whose self-styled yogi punch felled against champion Joe Louis, opened cautiously. He caught Nordman, 195, with a few wild rights in the second, tagged him frequently in the third and felled him twice in the fourth before putting the Kansas out for keeps in 2.02 of the round.

AMERICAN TOURNAMENT

The Victoria Badminton Club will hold an American tournament Tuesday evening, commencing at 8. Prizes will be awarded to the winners. All members are invited to attend, and a special invitation is extended to former members. Anyone interested will be welcomed.

Robinson Boomed In Easy Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray Robinson ran his all-victorious string to 127 fights in a row Friday night by making his second invasion of the middleweight division and outpointing Vic Delicurti, a willing but inept workman from the sidewalks of New York, easily over 10 rounds. Robinson weighed 144½, Delicurti 153½.

Welterweight Robinson had no trouble with the rugged upstart tussler. In fact, the "sugar man" so completely outclassed Delicurti that the Associated Press score card gave him every round of the bout.

And in three of these heats—the 5th, 6th and 7th—after he had Vic cut and bleeding badly from a deeply-gashed left eye that grew progressively worse through the last six rounds, Robinson was apparently easing up and "carrying" his rival along.

He did this again in the 10th round, even failing to throw punches when he had obvious openings, and the crowd "booed" the lack of action.

The skinny Harlem negro probably found this an easier fight than any in his long run of 89 amateur and 38 professional trips to the post. Delicurti kept trying right to the wire.

Nanaimo After New Ice Players

NANAIMO (CP) — Smarting from their reverse at Victoria on Monday night, where they absorbed a 13 to 1 shellacking at the hands of the crack blue-jackets from Esquimalt, Nanaimo Clippers will trot out a brace of new players if they can get the O.K. from A. S. Aiken, secretary of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association, for their clash on Saturday night with the revamped Flyers sextette from Pat Bay.

Added zip to Clippers' forward line will be provided by Harry (Puck) Williams, rightwinger with New Westminster Spitfires in last season's intermediate coast circuit and well-known to both Victoria and Vancouver puck fans.

A spokesman for the Nanaimo Hockey Club said Friday night that releases for both players would be sought today at a meeting of the B.C.A.H.A.

Rowe Kicks, Peden Holds

When the Victoria High School Air and Army-Sea Cadet teams played the first of a series Friday they had a couple of famous Victoria athletes on hand to officiate. Hank Rowe, M.M., recently returned from the battle of Dieppe, kicked off while Doug Peden, basketball and baseball star and six-day bike rider, refereed. In the picture Rowe prepares to give the ball a lusty boot as Peden holds.

Buzinski Meets Wolves

By CHARLES EDWARDS TORONTO (CP) — Sympathies to old Steve Buzinski, not that he's really old—New York Ranger's rookie goalie is only 25—but he's probably aging fast.

Of all National Hockey League rookies, Buzinski received closest inspection when the season opened a week ago. The major league has pulled prize plums direct from junior or senior amateur ranks occasionally, but to take a man from the Swift Current, Sask., intermediates into the world's fastest puck company was something new, even for Lester Patrick.

Had Horatio Alger written the script for that opening game, Buzinski, when engaged in shooting villains away from distressed damsels, would have grimly turned aside Toronto Leafs' most blistering shots. But Steve was writing his own continuity that night and when the rain of rubber ceased he found himself beaten 7 to 2.

RITCHIE ON SPOT

Swift Current's hockey-hungry citizens shuddered and all Canada winced in sympathy. Walt (Saskatoon Star-Phoenix) Riddell spared a thought for Al Ritchie, veteran Regina hockey coach: "It is doubtful if Ritchie felt so good about the seven goals Steve Buzinski had fired past him at Toronto, Saturday night. Al recommended Buzinski to Lester Patrick."

Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Coleman commented: "The wolves in Madison Square Garden are notoriously ravenous where goalies are concerned. The New Yorkers are likely to blame Buzinski for the errors made by his defence men. We hope we're wrong, but unless Buzinski is made of pretty rugged stuff, the wolves may break his spirit and send him back to Swift Current before the spring thaw."

Then at Detroit Thursday night Steve was given cause to doubt reports of a rubber shortage. The Red Wings beat him 12 to 5 and, if Buzinski didn't draw referee Lampert's attention

Goals Fly Fast as Army Ice Squad Beats V.M.D.

Hitting double scoring figures for the second successive night, Army defeated the Victoria Machinery Depot 12 to 7 in a wide-open Island Hockey League game at the Willows Arena Friday night. In their first appearance the soldiers turned back the R.C.A.F. Flyers 13 to 1, giving them a smashing offensive record of 25 goals in two engagements.

Finals Tonight In Club Tourney

Club champions of the Victoria Table Tennis Association will be crowned tonight as finals in the annual tournament are held at the Crystal Garden, starting at 7.

In the feature men's singles, play narrowed down to the semifinals, Friday night, with W. Browne-Cave, defending champion, still in the running as a result of his three-set win over Bill Prior, 21-14, 21-14, 21-15. Vic Tully, former city champion, was carried to four sets by the surprising Don Ewerby. Scores were 21-13, 21-17, 10-21, 21-14. In the third match, Ray Dawson, present city champ, eliminated J. Lukey, 2-15, 21-17, 21-13. Art Barron, Vancouver star, had previously gained the semis.

In tonight's semis, Dawson plays Barron and Browne-Cave battles Tully.

Keith Olson and Trevor Taylor won the first championship, defeating Billy Tuthill and Pete Satterfield for the junior doubles crown in four sets, 15-21, 21-16, 21-19, 21-15.

Goals Fly Fast as Army Ice Squad Beats V.M.D.

Metz Suffers Shattered Collarbone

Hitting double scoring figures for the second successive night, Army defeated the Victoria Machinery Depot 12 to 7 in a wide-open Island Hockey League game at the Willows Arena Friday night. In their first appearance the soldiers turned back the R.C.A.F. Flyers 13 to 1, giving them a smashing offensive record of 25 goals in two engagements.

Army triumph boosted them into a tie with the Navy for the league leadership, each with an undefeated record in two starts. It made a perfect setup for Monday night's clash between the Army and Navy, with undisputed possession of first place at stake. This game looks like the best to date and another bumper crowd is certain.

Army club suffered a serious loss early in the third period when Nick Metz, former Toronto Maple Leafs star, fractured a collarbone and will be out of the line-up for about five weeks. Metz, making his first appearance for the unit, crashed into a goalpost, and on examination by a doctor the injury was discovered. The skating winger was speeding in on goal when checked by defenceman Al Ewerby and the pair smashed into the goal, taking V.M.D. goalie Laurel Harney down with them. Ewerby was shaken up but returned to play after a rest, while Harney came out of the pile-up none the worse.

SECOND INJURY

It marked the second player injury for the Army in two games, defenceman Sawchuck suffering a broken hand in the opener and going to the sidelines for three weeks.

Game was marked by not a single penalty. The boys didn't lay off the heavy checking or high sticking but nobody went far enough to be waved off by the referees. After the game Referee Ed Battell declared it was the first game he had ever officiated in that went through the 60 minutes without a penalty.

Bill Carse, former member of the Chicago Black Hawks; Bus Algar, last season with the local Bapcos, and Pinky Melynk, a minor league professional last season, shared the goal-scoring honors for the Army, each with three. Carse and Algar also got two more points in the scoring records, each with a pair of assists.

Left-winger Morris Duffy got himself three of the V.M.D. goals and looked much improved over his last appearance. Although five goals separated the clubs at the finish, the game was plenty exciting. After the Army had rifled through five straight goals in the second period to hold a 7 to 1 margin, the V.M.D. started to click and a pair of goals by Duffy and one by Red Beattie, as the period drew to a close, got the fans going.

Hostak Rallies To Earn Draw

SEATTLE (AP) — Former middleweight champion Al Hostak and Harry (Kid) Matthews fought to a 10-round draw in their return match here Friday night.

A strong finish by Hostak, who weighed in at 160, brought him even with the 166-pound former Emmett, Idaho, puncher who scored a decision over him in their first bout several weeks ago.

Most of the torrid action of the fight came in the 9th and 10th rounds, when the former N.B.A.-recognized champion apparently sensed that he needed a knockout to win. Throwing caution to the wind, and showing a better fighting heart than in his championship days, Hostak waded in with both arms swinging.

He took the rounds by a clear margin as Matthews took to cover, unable to get in position even to counter with the left hand that had kept Al off balance during the earlier rounds.

The strong finish had the approximately 8,000 Hostak-partial fight fans going wild. The crowd was all for Hostak for two probable reasons: many thought he deserved at least a draw in his previous match with the young shipyard worker and Al had said it would be his last fight before entering the armed forces.

It was Matthews' steadily jabbing left that piled up his advantage in the earlier rounds. The Associated Press score sheet listed three rounds even, five for Matthews by narrow margins and the final two clearly to Hostak.

HASSETT IN NAVY

NEW YORK (AP) — Bridegroom Buddy Hassett, who landed the first-base job with New York Yankees last season after nine years with various other baseball teams, probably will change uniforms again before another season rolls around. Hassett has notified the Yanks that he intends to join the United States navy.

Dominion Restaurant Of Latest Design

Victoria's latest and most modern eating place, the Royal Dominion Restaurant, opened this week. Located at 775 Yates Street, in the east section of the Dominion Hotel, this up to the minute restaurant should fill a long-felt want in the city.

In line with the traditional progressive policy of the late Stephen Jones, the management of the Dominion Hotel had for some time planned improved restaurant facilities for its patrons. Their plans have been realized in the Royal Dominion Restaurant.

With the present greatly increased demand for hotel accommodation, particularly on the part of service personnel and their families, the necessary alterations were commenced some months ago and are now completed.

CONSERVE ON MATERIALS

In making these alterations, carried on under the supervision of the property management department of the Royal Trust Co., every possible effort was made to keep at a minimum the use of material's essential to the war effort. Wherever possible equipment formerly used in the Dominion Hotel dining-room was redesigned and altered where necessary to bring it in line with modern requirements.

The restaurant is under the management of Mr. and Mrs. George Arsens, assisted by their son, Paul Arsens. Associated with them will be J. Arsens, a brother of George Arsens, for many years associated with restaurants in the west and latterly with the Canadian National Railways dining car service, and R. Miller, who has been associated with the restaurant business for many years. Mr. and Mrs. George Arsens have successfully and favorably managed the Sussex Cafe here during the past few years.

An inspection of the Royal Dominion Restaurant shows it as an eating place that cannot help but create a favorable impression with even the most exacting patrons.

The restaurant has accommodation for 60 patrons at one time. The booths accommodate 48 and the counter 12. Eight booths, on the west side of the restaurant, each seat two customers, a new design in cafe planning.

The larger booths, capable of seating 24, are laid out in California style, the very latest in restaurant designing and the first in Victoria. Another feature of the restaurant is a convertible booth, which, when a removable partition is taken out, seats from eight to 10 people.

Victoria's Newest Restaurant Features Modern Design

WALLS REDUCE NOISE

Sound-absorbing Ten-Ten walls in the main restaurant reduce noise to a minimum and allow conversation to be carried on in normal fashion. Booths, fittings and wainscoting are finished in bleached Philippine mahogany, while booths are upholstered in attractive ultramarine blue.

The table tops and counter top are of Formica, an unusual acid-proof, stain-proof material which is easy to keep clean. The entire restaurant is illuminated by soft, indirect lighting, while the advertising lights in the windows are Zeon, an improvement over Neon, and were installed by the Western Neon Company.

The floor is finished attractively in battleship linoleum in pleasing shades and designs. The entire design of the restaurant features simplicity and good taste, designed to provide the utmost in comfort.

Presiding in the kitchen is beaming George Kintoff, the chef. Before coming to the Royal Dominion, Mr. Kintoff was for many years with the Commodore Restaurant in Vancouver. Despite rationing of many luxurious foods, Mr. Kintoff has the knack of expertly preparing many types of speciality dishes. William Long, formerly with the Canadian Pacific Railway and many of British Columbia's best restaurants, is the assistant chef.

MODERN KITCHEN
Modernity and cleanliness stand out everywhere in the efficient kitchen. Utilizing gas as a fuel, the large, new range has its ovens equipped with thermostatic controls. The latest in steam table equipment is included, and also adequate refrigeration equipment to keep perishable foodstuffs fresh and appetizing. Appetizers, salads and sandwiches are all kept in special refrigerators.

Natural light is provided by large windows, while fluorescent lighting is used after dark. Specially designed to facilitate its being kept spotlessly clean at all times, the kitchen is ventilated by electric fans which exhaust all cooking odors through a duct in the roof of the building.

The spacious rear of the building is literally honeycombed with store rooms, designed to hold all the different kinds of food used by the restaurant. There are two large walk-in refrigerators, one for meat and one for vegetables. Other store rooms are fitted for the storage of canned goods, groceries and various bulk supplies. There is a special cereal room where breakfast foods, tea, coffee and other dry storage is maintained.

A modern office facilitates the efficient direction and operation of the restaurant. Suitable locker space and wash rooms are also provided at the rear of the establishment for the staff.

From the front door, into the kitchen and through into the store rooms, the Royal Dominion Restaurant compares favorably with anything on the west coast today. The management of the Dominion Hotel are to be congratulated on the successful completion of a project so necessary in an over-crowded Victoria.

The Royal Dominion will be open daily between 7 a.m. and midnight, except on Saturdays, when it will remain open until 1 a.m.

COURTEOUS STAFF

Well staffed with capable and courteous waitresses, the restaurant can offer speedy and efficient service. The waitresses are garbed in attractive maroon uniforms with white trimmings.

In addition to catering to patrons of the Dominion Hotel, the Royal Dominion incorporates many features which should prove popular with the public, specializing in after-theatre suppers and afternoon teas.

During the dinner hours and late at night the restaurant hostess, Mrs. Lee Arsens, will be in attendance to direct patron to their booths and to attend to individual wishes.

Specialized kitchen equipment was manufactured by the Quest Metal Company of Vancouver, whose energetic manager, Ken Russell, assisted greatly in the general layout. The beautiful restaurant woodwork was manu-

Oak Bay Test Shows Dimout Not Costly To Household

A permanent dimout of Victoria can be brought about without causing householders undue difficulty and expense, A. S. G. Musgrave, Oak Bay A.R.P. controller and municipal engineer, announced today. His opinion was based on data gathered Friday night when the first actual dimout test of the Victoria area was completed.

The test Friday night was watched from the sea by Mr. Musgrave, S.Sgt. G. A. Johnson, Reeve W. L. Woodhouse, Police Chief H. F. Reston, Inspector A. H. Bishop, Victoria civilian protection officer; H. W. Pecknold, Esquimalt A.R.P. controller, and city officials.

Two hundred and fifty householders co-operated with A.R.P. authorities for the test by leaving lights shining seaward until 8, dimming out lights facing the sea from 8 to 8.15 and turning out lights from 8.15 to 8.30. Oak Bay wardens patrolled the area to assist in making the test perfect.

"A few improvements on the dimout last night, between 8 and 8.15 will be needed," Mr. Musgrave said. "When these are made, the dimout can be brought about by regulating street lights and having householders draw blinds and draperies in their windows."

NO SEA REFLECTION

"The contrast between 'lights on' and 'blinds drawn' was marked," he said. "All reflection left the water and only a few bright lights shone."

At 8.15 all lights were extinguished completely and the contrast was not nearly as great as between "lights on" and "blinds drawn." He said this might partly be accounted for by the lights on the fringe of the area.

The brighter lights have been noticed, he said, and steps will be taken to control them. He said by use of both blinds and draperies and shielding brighter lights from within, an adequate dimout could be effected.

Mr. Musgrave said, however, that the official regulations have not yet been announced and while local officers would be responsible for enforcing the orders householders would have to conform to the provincial regulations.

TOWN TOPICS

Premier Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 1610, will meet in the Orange Hall Courtenay Street, Monday, at 8.

During the first week of the city tax sale, 21 properties have been sold for a total of $8,068, including three purchased by the city, the week-end report indicated today.

The Credit Granters' Association will meet in Spencer's dining-room, Tuesday. Charles H. Booth of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will outline the progress of the board and deal with its prospects.

An office structure valued at $2,500 for the Selkirk Lumber Co. Ltd., 401 Carbalby Road, was covered in a permit issued by the city building inspector's department today. The project raised to $5,100 the value of civilian construction in the city this week.

Second game of the playoff for the Canadian football city championship between the Victoria High School Alumni and V.M.D. Blue Devils will take place Sunday afternoon at Central Park at 2.30. Alumni won the first game of the best-of-three series, 19 to 11.

Mile Limit Halves Taxi Cab Service

Limiting of taxi cabs to 2,000 miles a month or 65 miles a day will cut taxi service in Victoria 50 per cent, company managers said today. "Announcement of the curtailment was made in Ottawa Friday by G. S. Gray, transit controller, and G. R. Cottrell, oil controller."

Taxi cab managers said their cabs were averaging between 4,000 and 5,000 miles a month now. An immediate curtailment will have to be effected to cut mileage to 2,000.

How taxi companies will effect the cut was not known definitely today but company spokesmen said they intended to start by leaving cabs at outside stands so they will eliminate unproductive mileage, and may eventually stop sending cabs to dance halls and beer taverns and cut out taxi service at night and on Sundays.

One taxi cab manager said that if a central switch board were put in and taxis did not return to their stands after having taken a passenger out of the downtown area but waited to take a passenger into town, the mileage saving would be considerable.

He said that of the total miles traveled by the average taxi only 45 per cent were productive miles.

Robbed Friday Night

The Windsor Auto Court, Gorge Road, was robbed of $143, a $75 diamond ring and a gold watch, bag, around 11, Friday night, when unidentified thieves broke into the auto court office and three suites.

Entrance to the office was gained by a side window, $123 being stolen from the cash drawer. The door of an adjoining bedroom was forced and $20 was stolen from there.

While investigating, Detective Morris Wilkinson and Constable Thomas Baulster of the city police, found that a diamond ring, valued at $75, and a suitcase had been taken from the suite of L. A. Pletcher.

Dominion Hotel Has Served Long

Founded in Victoria in 1889 by the late Stephen Jones, and synonymous with the growth of British Columbia in general and Victoria in particular, the Dominion Hotel, Victoria's oldest established hotel, this week opened the city's newest and most modern eating place, the Royal Dominion Restaurant.

This forward step is in line with the progressive policy of the late Stephen Jones as carried on by the joint trustees of his estate, Samuel McClure and the Royal Trust Company.

Not much more than three-quarters of a century ago Victoria was laid out as a town and may justly claim the distinction of being one of the original centres of population on the Pacific coast. Vancouver Island was one of the first areas bordering the broad expanses of the Pacific Ocean to be visited by explorers and it was familiar to the adventures of those early days when California was still under the domination of the Spanish Dons and Indian tribes.

In those early days the Dominion Hotel was in the front rank in meeting the requirements of the pioneers. From the beginning the Dominion Hotel has developed with successive additions until it is now one of the most up-to-date hotels in the Canadian Northwest.

It is thus interesting to note that Victoria's oldest established hotel has now opened the city's most modern restaurant.

Oak Bay Juniors Raise Over $1000

Approximately $1,000 was raised at the "country fair" held Friday in the Oak Bay High School by the Oak Bay Division of the Junior Red Cross. This sum will go to the British war nurseries.

A fanfare sounded at 4 o'clock by cadet buglers was the sign given for the official opening of the fair by Lieut. Hew Paterson.

The president of the Junior Red Cross, Miss Jane Strellett, assisted by Principal D. H. Hartness, received the guests, who included besides, parents and friends, members of the school board and trustees.

Under the artistic supervision of Miss C. N. Burridge, who was also general convener of the event, the school was transformed into a gala country festival scene. The girls wore colorful peasant dress and the boys looked for all the world like prosperous farmers. In the large auditorium the stage was banked with corn while haystacks and scare crows completed the rustic scene. In the corridors were placed wheelbarrows and rakes in readiness to cart away the autumn leaves, which with pumpkins and waving grain added realism to the successful decorations.

The conveners of the various stalls, which did a rapid business, were: Novelties, Grace Campbell, Edith Newcombe; superfluties, Shirley Anderson; dolls, Sheila Whittemore and a group of Grade 9 girls; home cooking, Bernice Hughes; garden, Jerry Webb; books and music, Shirley Gunn; refreshments, Loris Brynjolfsson, assisted by her committee.

During the afternoon a large bazaar was wheeled through the rooms and "hot dogs" were sold by white uniformed boys, who had no trouble at all in selling their wares. In the evening games were run by the boys and fortune-tellers were kept busy. Before closing an auction was held of produce used in decorations and unsold articles.

Sawdust and Wood Ceiling Prices

The fuel administration, War, Time Prices and Trade Board, has received information to the effect that householders in Victoria are paying, in many cases, higher prices for wood fuel than the ceiling prices listed in fuel wood order No. 40.

The following maximum delivered prices are authorized: Maximum delivered prices per unit of sawdust in inner Victoria area—$5.4 Douglas fir (bagged), $5. in bulk—$4.50; all others (bagged), $4. in bulk $3.50.

Maximum delivered prices per cord of millwood, not more than 16 inches in length, in inner Victoria area, unsorted 85% Douglas fir (mixed slabs, edgings, inside fir blocks, fresh cut), $4.25, dry $3.25; Douglas fir slabs, $4 and $6; Douglas fir edgings, $3.75 and $5.75; Douglas fir slabs and edgings mixed, $3.90 and $5.90; slabs and/or edgings or blocks other than Douglas fir, $3.25 and $5.25; inside Douglas fir, $6.50 and $6.50; Douglas fir heater blocks, $5 and $5; dry kindling, $6.75.

Maximum delivered prices per cord of millwood over 16 inches in length, in inner Victoria area—Length of slabs and/or edgings, 4 ft., fresh cut $4.25, dry $5.25; 2 ft. and odd lengths (not over 4 ft. or under 18 ins.) $4 and $5.

It should be noted that an extra charge not exceeding 50 cents per unit of sawdust or per cord of millwood is permitted for delivery in the outer Victoria area. An additional charge of 50 cents per cord may be added to such maximum price of millwood for the variety known as dryland or upland wood. Infractions of price ceilings should be reported promptly to the board.

Householders are requested by the board to insist on receiving from dealers proper invoices covering class, quantity and price of wood fuel sold and delivered.

Two Street Cars Crash on Douglas

An Esquimalt street car proceeding south on Douglas at 7.25 this morning ran, into the rear of a Gonzales car, travelling in the same direction, at Caledonia Avenue, seriously damaging both cars. No one was hurt.

The Esquimalt car, driven by E. C. Tucker, was following the Gonzales car on Douglas, according to the police report, the collision occurring after the No. 6 car had stopped.

When it struck, the Esquimalt car went off the rails and partly up on the rear of the Gonzales car. The rear of the Gonzales car was damaged, the back wall being pushed into the vestibule. The front of the Esquimalt car was pushed back almost to the front seats. The front doors of the Esquimalt car were forced open and almost torn off by the collision.

Broken glass was showered from both cars to both curb lines of Douglas.

68 Degrees Highest October Temperature

Highest temperature in Victoria during October was 68 degrees according to information received today from the Dominion Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Heights. This temperature was recorded Oct. 9. Minimum temperature, 39 degrees and 33 on the grass, was recorded on Oct. 28. The mean temperature was 54 degrees.

A total of 144 hours of sunshine was recorded and precipitation of 1.32 inches. This raised precipitation for the first 10 months of the year to 9.45 inches.

All Island Units Fill Victory Quotas

Saanich-Gulf Islands and Oak Bay units came from behind today to overtake their quotas in the Third Victory Loan campaign and give Vancouver Island 100 per cent rating on all counts.

At noon today the Saanich-Gulf Island workers had secured subscriptions totaling $851,300, against an objective of $835,000, and Oak Bay flew the victory pennant with a total of $1,068,290, which was $23,000 over their quota. Both units expect to increase totals before the final count.

Altogether Vancouver Island had raised $14,107,600 to noon today. With the banks open until 4 this afternoon to accommodate purchasers, it is anticipated close to $14,500,000 will be turned over to the government by Vancouver Island.

Victoria came close to the $9,000,000 mark today and standings for all units at noon stood as follows: Victoria, $8,991,800; Oak Bay, $1,088,200; Esquimalt, $680,500; Saanich-Gulf Islands, $851,300; Nanaimo, $750,600; Alberni, $556,100; Cowichan-Duncan, $852,900; Courtenay-Comox, $536,200; total, $14,107,600.

Employee groups in the metropolitan area responded well throughout the campaign. Outstanding were the New Method Laundry, employees, who exceeded their objective of $11,000; Dominion civil servants who subscribed over $40,000; provincial civil servants, who added $82,000 to the cause, and city of Victoria employees, who invested $17,100.

Remembrance Service At Cathedral Tomorrow

All members of ex-service associations will participate in the public service of remembrance to be held in Christ Church Cathedral at 3, Sunday afternoon. Dean Spencer H. Elliott will conduct the service and the sermon will be delivered by Rev. Hugh A. McLeod of First United Church. The R.C.N. band will take the musical part of the service and the trumpeters of H.M. C.S. Naden will sound the Last Post and Reveille for the silent tribute.

The White Ensign of the Naval Veterans, together with the colors of the district council of the Canadian Legion will be received by the Dean in token of rededication of all ex-service men and women to the service of God, King and Country.

Ex-service men and women will gather outside the Cathedral at 2.40 p.m. tomorrow, wearing mufti, medals and decorations.

Fighters From Victoria Arrive In Britain

A BRITISH PORT (CP) — Pointing up the increased fighting German and occupied Europe are expected to take from the air this winter, new thousands of Canadian airmen have arrived in Britain to join battle-tested members of the R.C.A.F.

As if to emphasize the fighting power in the latest arrivals, authorities permitted disclosure that 80 per cent of the latest air force reinforcements were air crew—pilots, observers, air gunners and wireless operators.

The airmen were met by Air Vice-Admiral Marshal J. A. Sully of Winnipeg, air member for personnel in Canada. The men were in charge of Group Capt. J. C. Laane of Regina and Edmonton. Not a man was lost on the crossing.

Some of the airmen were veterans, going back for another crack at the Nazis. They included Wing Cmds. A. C. P. Clayton of Vancouver, former commanding officer of an R.C.A.F. medium bomber squadron.

Other instructors welcoming "the break we have been hoping for" included Flt. Lt. A. C. Coles of Vancouver and P.O. W. L. Marr of Vancouver.

There were many pilots from western Canada, including Alan Mayhew of Victoria and Richard Day of Duncan, B.C., who received his commission during his embarkation leave in Canada.

Among wireless air-gunnery aboard was Ian Carne of Nelson, B.C.

Wireless air-gunnery of sergeant rank included Gordon Wright of Vancouver and Bernard McPherson of Grand Forks, B.C.

Recently graduated sergeant pilots included Robert Callaghan of Vancouver.

Pilot officer hoping to get action shortly is Red Baum of Powell River, B.C.

Observers include P.O. Colin Finlayson of Victoria and R. J. Bouman of Vancouver.

ARMY MEN

Included in the latest army from Canada are thousands of reinforcements for the field army as well as specialists.

The latest convoy brought men of infantry and artillery regiments.

Among the artillery units was a sportsmen's battery from Toronto, commanded by Maj. Conny Smythe, former managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team.

A Royal Canadian Navy draft was led by Lieut. V. L. Miller, Halifax. The executive officer was Lieut. J. O. T. Lee, Victoria. The draft included replacements for ships' crew, sailors who will take special courses here and a group scheduled to train on combined operations.

Among navy commandos was Stoker Harvey MacIntosh of Lethbridge, Alta.

Lieut. W. V. Maclean, Toronto and Winnipeg, commanded a draft of reinforcements for the Royal Canadian Engineers. Lieut. E. G. Barton, Victoria, was in charge of a mobile bath unit.

In the group of nursing sisters was Janet Ledingham, Lethbridge.

Officers of an armored division regiment from Nova Scotia included Maj. Roger Odum, Vancouver, son of Maj. Gen. Victor Odum, former commander of the 2nd Canadian division. Maj. Odum learned on arrival that his father, Canadian High Commissioner to Australia, had been appointed this week Canadian Minister to China.

FROM PACIFIC
Major R. W. Phipps, Victoria, commanded a battery from Alberta. These were the first Canadian troops sent to Alaska and they came all the way from the Pacific coast to England. The battery captain was W. J. Farnsworth, Victoria.

Lieutenants included Charles Shie, Calgary; Allan Wallace, Lethbridge, and J. E. Corbet, Edmonton. The battalion sergeant-major was W. Cartwright, Vancouver, and the battalion quartermaster sergeant, O. Watt, Victoria. Sgts. Doug Nelson and Reg. Clarke came from Victoria and Norman McGlashan and Vic Miller from Prince Rupert.

On one ship was Lt. Col. Ralph Webb, former mayor of Winnipeg and now chief inspector of messing and catering in the army.

CARIBOO OUTPUT DOWN

Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co. today reported October production of $72,303 from 5,443 tons of ore milled. This compared with $99,368 from 6,096 tons in September.

MISSING

P.O. J. R. DAVIS missing since Sunday in the R.C.A.F. aircraft. He was pilot from a Newfoundland base. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Davies of 357 Irvine Road are his parents.

Cruiser Explosion Sends 4 to Hospital

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lieut. Cornelius Burke, 26, and Stanley Burke Jr., 19, are in hospital here suffering burns to the face and hands and J. L. Robertson, suffering a fractured leg, after an explosion and fire destroyed the 70-foot cruiser owned by Stanley J. Burke, president of Boeing Aircraft of Canada.

Nancy Bell-Irving was treated at the hospital for lacerations but not admitted and two others aboard escaped with minor injuries.

The cruiser had just finished taking on gasoline at a barge anchored in Coal Harbor when an explosion blasted out windows and doors of the boat and turned the vessel into a mass of flames minutes later.

The boat started to drift away from the barge after the explosion and the five aboard jumped to the dock. Burning fiercely the cruiser endangered nearby boats as it drifted away and threatened the gas-laden scow for a while.

E. G. Woodside, scow operator, said "I was just standing there after finishing loading her up when the explosion came and blew me backwards. It all happened so fast that I hardly knew what had taken place."

Lieut. Burke is home on leave from the Royal Navy after serving in charge of a motor torpedo boat in the English Channel.

P.O. Beurling's Story

'Flying Got Into My Bones'

The following story was written in a British hospital for the Canadian Press by Pilot Officer George F. Beurling, 20-year-old fighter pilot from Verdun, Que., whose exploits at Malta and his official record of 28½ enemy aircraft destroyed ranks him as one of the war's leading airmen.

By P.O. G. F. BEURLING, D.S.O., D.F.C., D.F.M., and Bar.

LONDON (CP) — I wonder sometimes if my mother is pleased with what I've done. Sometimes I think she worries about me, but I hope she doesn't because there's nothing for her to worry about.

That last day when I got shot down with a small splinter of shrapnel through my heel I was afraid she would think I was badly hurt; and then that day when we crashed at Gibraltar, somehow or other word got around that I had broken my leg and I want to tell her now I am perfectly okay and that even this business with my heel will be cleared up by Nov. 16. Right now I feel fine, but it would be good to get home for a few weeks and see the family.

JUST ANOTHER

I am just another fighter pilot. I don't know why anybody should want to hear my story because there is nothing unusual about it. Ever since I was a kid I've been nuts about flying. In fact, come to think of it, flying is about all I've ever been interested in.

I used to hang around the airport at Cartierville and watch the people flying there.

A little later when I got old enough most people didn't think I was old enough, but I knew I could handle it all right—I began to fly myself. By the time I was 17 I had about 40 hours' flying time and a permit to fly.

I remember when the Finnish war was on in 1940 (I was 17 then) I thought it would be great to go to Finland and fly there. Then in the summer I tried to join the R.C.A.F. but I didn't have enough schooling and the recruiting officer told me I should go back to school for a while and then I probably could enlist all right as a R.C.A.F. pilot.

But I couldn't have stayed at school because flying had got into my bones. I figured my best bet was to do to England and try to join the R.A.F. I hadn't very much money so I signed up with the crew of a freighter and crossed the Atlantic. When I got to England I went to an R.A.F. recruiting centre and told them I wanted to be a pilot.

They asked me how old I was. I told them they said I'd have to get written permission from my parents before they would allow me to enlist, and also I must produce my pilot's license and a few other documents.

Rather than wait to get these sent over, I signed up on another freighter and went back to Canada. When I landed I had quite a bit of money and I knew my mother loved driving in the mountains so I hired a car and took her up for a long trip.

Then I got all my necessary documents together, signed up on another freighter and came to England. This time the R.A.F. accepted me. After my training they made me a fighter pilot. That was what I'd always wanted because I thought then, and still think, it's the best fun in the world.

SIMPLE

People keep asking me what my system is. There's nothing particularly complicated about it. It's a matter of training and practice and it's perfectly simple for anybody to follow if they only apply themselves. It's a matter of training your eyes to focus swiftly on any small object that's out there.

I think this is the most important because the longer I fly and the more operations I see, the more I'm convinced that in this racket it's the man who spots the other man first who comes out on top in the end. Given good eyesight and lots of practice, there's no reason why any pilot shouldn't be able to train himself to do this.

But after he's spotted the enemy the next thing is to shoot him down. I personally say that no pilot can ever get enough shooting practice. It so happens I've been interested in shooting ever since I could hold a gun and since I became a fighter pilot I've devoted a lot of time to shooting with particular reference to air firing.

The trickiest part of this is deflection shooting or in other words shooting across the beam of an enemy aircraft traveling 300 miles an hour or better. It means you fire well ahead of it if your bullets aren't to pass hopelessly behind. I've never stopped practicing this and as long as I'm a fighter pilot I never will because you can never know enough about it and you're always picking up new ideas.

You have to profit by your mistakes, too. I know I've made lots of mistakes but I like to think I only made the same ones once. When I know I've made a mistake I try to figure out the reason for it and make sure it doesn't happen again.

You have to know how good the other fellow is and what his weaknesses are and how you are going to get him. Then you have to go ahead and apply what you've discovered to conditions of air fighting as they arise. I never get jittery before operations because I feel I've some idea of what is required and that in the Spitfire I have an aircraft which is capable of coming out on top so long as I make no mistakes.

There must be lots of Canadian boys now training all across Canada who will be fighter pilots soon and I want to say to them that if they want to make a success of it they must never stop practicing—practicing by shooting all the time and training their eyes to be sharp.

I don't think they should find it very hard.

MacCallum Heads Shipping Board

OTTAWA (CP) — A. L. W. MacCallum, director of shipping, has been appointed chairman of the Canadian Shipping Board, Trade Minister Mackinnon announced today.

He succeeds L. D. Willgress, former chairman and Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, who has been named Canadian Minister to Russia.

Mr. MacCallum said Mr. MacCallum will continue to discharge the duties of director of shipping along with his new responsibilities.

Mr. MacCallum's services have been loaned to the government for the past three years by the Shipping Federation of Canada, of which he is manager. He was appointed director of shipping shortly after establishment of the Canadian Shipping Board in December, 1939.

Jap Ship Claims

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts, AP) — Imperial headquarters claimed today that Japanese naval forces sank 21 Allied submarines in three months, from late July to late October, while losing two of their own submarines.

(Exaggeration has marked Japanese naval reports. Allied figures do not confirm this claim.)

Acknowledging loss of 29 Japanese merchant vessels totaling 122,500 tons in the same period, the communiqué reported 31 Allied merchant vessels aggregating 252,400 tons had been sunk by the Japanese navy.

Domei said the results, "added to previous British-American losses since the start of hostilities, brings the total number of British-American submarines sunk to 89 and the damaged to 39."

U.S. Onion Prices Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price Administrator Leon Henderson today issued new price controls on potatoes, onions and turkeys in the United States which will mean somewhat higher retail prices for onions and some potatoes, and leave turkey prices at substantially present levels.

Travel Not Near Saturation Point

S. OSBORNE SCOTT

Despite the pressure of essential travel Canadian National Railways passenger organization is functioning smoothly and the company is in a position to handle additional business as it develops, according to S. Osborne Scott, passenger traffic manager, C.N.R. western region, Winnipeg, who reached the city today on an inspection tour of the Pacific coast.

"We haven't reached the point of saturation as far as handling passenger traffic is concerned," said Mr. Scott, who is registered at the Empress Hotel.

"Tremendously busy, of course, and equipment taxed, but we can still handle more business."

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Large coarse grain business featured trade on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Wheat was neglected most of the session, with the December futures closing unchanged.

Good buying in the coarse grain futures by a large local interest resulted in sale of an estimated 2,000,000 bushels of oats and 1,500,000 bushels of barley.

Shippers showed interest in cash wheat dealings, with some inquiry made for No. 2 northern.
